RECLUSE SLAYS TRESPASSER AND DEPUTY SHERIFF

Captured Near Pawnee, Oklahoma and Taken To Unnamed Jail

MEANNESS PROMPTED ACTS, SHERIFF SAYS

Fired On Youth and Companion Because Were Bothering Him

PAWNEE, Okla., Dec. 8, (AP)—Two deaths charged by officers to his "meanness," Jess Powell, 65 year old widower-farmer, was held Monday night in an unnamed jail.

The recluse, who Sunday night killed a youthful trespasser, wounded his companion and then fired a fatal shot from ambush at Deputy Sherdiff Ed Hartwick, who went to his farm to arrest him, was captured early Monday at Ralston, near here.

But before he was taken to jail Powell whipped out an automatic pistol from his clothing, severely wounding posseman Louis Raba.

Pawnee's county's anger flared Monday as citizens thought of Hartwick's wife and seven children, including twin five- year old boys, so the admitted killer was spirited to a point undisclosed by officers.

Sheriff Allen Jones, who ascribed Powell's orgy of gunfire to "just meanness" said he anticipated on mob trouble, however. Two mur-

COUNTY ATTORNEY WILL TESTIFY IN CONSPIRACY CASE

Former Deputy Sheriff, Among Others, Says Paid for Protection

OKLAHOMA CITY, Dec. 8, (AP)—P. V. Ruch, Tillman county attorney, one of seven men on trial in federal district court here for conspiracy to violate prohibition laws, will testify Tuesday as the defense closes in a case in which it claims Ruch has been active in enforcement.

Seventeen of the original 29 defendants in the case, including Sheriff C. A. Wages and Robert S. Rogers, a constable, have involved Ruch, testifying protection money was paid.

Allegations that federal prohibition officers had objected to calling a Tillman county grand jury to investigate the alleged ring, brought a request from Judge Edgar S. Vaught for further information.

"Federal officers should no more interfere with operation of justice in state courts than state officers in federal courts," the judge said.

W. A. McInnis, assistant Tillman county attorney had testified that prohibition officers had talked with Ruch regarding calling of the grand jury while the conspiracy case was pending. They alleged McInnis said that Ruch had the grand jury called to shield himself.

Examination Of Red River To Start In 1931

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8, (AP)—General Lytle Brown, chief of army engineers, said Monday preliminary examination of the Red river in Texas would not be completed until about June 1, 1931.

Following a conference with Representative Rayburn, of Texas, General Brown said army engineers were making an investigation at the Red river for the purpose of determining its influence on floods of the Mississippi river. That investigation, he said would be ready for congress sometime after June 1, 1931.

Mrs. Pearl O'Loughlin Convicted Of Murder

Verdict Carries With It Life Sentence

DENVER, Dec. 8, (AP)—Mrs. Parl O'Loughlin was convicted Monday night by a jury in district court of the murder of her 10-year old stepdaughter Leona.

The verdict carries an automatic sentence of life imprisonment.

The woman who had sat through ten days of her trial with hardly a show of emotion received the verdict and walked from the room to the prisoners' dock unassisted.

Judge Henley A. Calvert received the verdict from the jury foreman, E. E. Tousley, intoned the finding of the twelve men and pronounced sentence.

The jury was out one hour and thirty-six minutes. Judge Calvert gave John M. Keating, chief counsel for Mrs. O'Loughlin, 30 days in which to file a motion for a new trial. Should that be denied, Keating said he would take an appeal to the state supreme court.

MALARIA SURVEY IN 29 SCHOOLS IS MADE MONDAY

Is Part Of Largest Survey Ever Conducted in the United States

Representatives of the Texas state health department and of the United States public health service completed a malaria survey of Lamar county Monday. Twenty-nine schools of the county were visited and at each school, blood samples were taken from children who have had malaria. These samples will be sent to the United States public health service at Washington, D. C. for analysis. Each school will be given a report on the blood samples taken.

The survey made in this county Monday is a part of the largest and most comprehensive survey ever to be made in the United States. It has been brought about by the cooperation of the United States public health service, the state

CHINESE SERVANT CHARGED SLAYING WEALTHY WIDOW

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 8, (AP)—Lew Fook, Chinese house servant was charged late Monday with the murder of Mrs. Rosetta Baker, wealthy 60-year-old widow found strangled in her apartment Monday morning. Chief of Detectives Charles Dullea said the servant's story of finding the former actress' body did not ring true and his body was covered with scratches.

'Mother' Jones Is Buried On Monday

MT. OLIVE, Ill., Dec. 8, (AP)—"Mother" Mary Jones, characterized as the Joan of Arc of labor, was laid to eternal rest here Monday.

The little woman who devoted nearly sixty of her 100 years of life to improving labor conditions and inspiring men and women to fight for the cause of organized labor, was buried at noon Monday in the Union Miners' cemetery in a grave facing the monument erected to these miners, called by Mother Jones her "brave boys," who gave their life in the Virden riot of 32 years ago.

CONTINUATION OF MURDER TRIAL GIVEN

FORT WORTH, Dec. 8, (AP)—Because witnesses were absent, Judge George E. Hosey, in criminal district court Monday granted a continuation in the murder trial of Sam Louder, Arlington negro, charged with the slaying of Evans Johnson, Arlington night watchman November 23.

14 Die As Hulk Of Sunken Boat Flares, Explodes

LIRIENT, France, Dec. 8, (AP)—Tons of guncotton submerged since the world war in the sunken hulk of the cargo boat Florence, suddenly flared and exploded Sunday shattering the Italian salvage ship Artiglio which was removing the wreck. Twelve of the Artiglio's crew, including the captain, Bertelettó Giacomo, lost their lives in the explosion.

The remaining seven of the crew, all injured, were rushed to hospitals at Belle Isle. The bodies of two divers, incased in their armored suits, were recovered from the wreckage.

The explosion occurred off the Island of Houat, on the west coast of Britanny not far from where the liner Egypt went down in 1922 with $5,000,000 in gold ingots aboard.

Screen Star Fined For Income Tax Evasion

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 8, (AP)—Bert Lytell screen actor, was fined $100 Monday in Federal court for evading part of his 1925 income tax. United States attorneys recommended the small fine, saying Lytell already had paid $25,000 in tax penalties.

J. Marjorie Berger, income tax counsellor, who prepared Lytell's return with those of other film people, is serving a three year term in Federal prison at Alderson, W. Va., on conviction of defrauding the government.

One Killed in Explosion

MAN KILLED IN GUN FIGHT WITH CANYON OFFICERS

Card Issued to "Brunson McCarver" As U. S. Investigator on Body

BULLET OF DEPUTY'S GUN ENDS ENCOUNTER

Canyon Police Chief Receives Flesh Wound; Others Uninjured

AMARILLO, Dec. 8, (AP)—A man was shot and killed in a gun fight with officers attemptnig to remove him from a bus near Canyon, 15 miles south of here Monday.

On the body was found a card issued to Brunson McCarver as a United States investigator and a letter of introduction from William J. Bacon, a police officer at Memphis, Tenn. The man appeared to be about 42 years old, was 5 feet 7 inches tall and weighed 140 pounds.

The man boarded a bus of the Pickwick lines at St. Louis on Dec. 6, and as the bus started to leave Amarillo Monday afternoon began to give trouble to the bus driver, as if he were intoxicated. The driver attemtped to drive away from the station without the man, but the latter swung aboard the rear end of the bus as it left.

The driver reported that the man's attitude became increasingly troublesome, and between Amarillo and Canyon the former stopped at a lunch stand and telephoned officers at Canyon to meet the bus. Meanwhile, the passengers, of whom there were 14, crowded to the rear of the vehicle, while the man argued with the driver.

Sheriff John Fry of Randel county, chief of Police Frank Hicks of Canyon, and deputy sheriff Bob Barnett of Canyon responded to the call and met the bus 3 miles north of the city.

At sight of the officers in an automobile, the man began firing through closed windows of the bus, shattering the glass. The officers returned the fire, and after exchange of a number of shots, the man dropped dead, killed by a bullet from the gun of the deputy.

Hicks received a flesh wound in the fore arm, but the other officers escaped uninjured. The man who was killed used a .38 caliber automatic pistol.

The body was taken to Canyon and held for identification by relatives.

DEPUTY SAYS McCARVER OPENED FIRE FIRST

AMARILLO, Dec. 8, (AP)—"McCarver fired the first shot—in fact he fired three shots before a single shot was fired at him" was the statement of Bob Barnett, Randall county deputy sheriff, following the shooting Monday afternoon of a man believed to be Brunson McCarver, a federal officer when the Randall county officers attempted to remove him from a Pickwick bus three miles north of Canyon.

His first shot was aimed at the driver, who went out the left front door after stopping the bus," said Barnett. "He then fired one shot straight forward through the windshield, aiming at Frank Hicks, and

Paris Host to Medical Group Formed Here Fifty Years Ago

At Convention

DR. RUFUS C. WHIDDON

DR. JOHN W. BURNS

Dr. Rufus C. Whiddon of Gainesville, above, is president of the North Texas Medical association which opens its fiftieth anniversary meeting in Paris Tuesday morning. Below is Dr. John W. Burns of Cuero, president of the Texas Medical association, convention guest, who will speak at the high school auditorium this evening.

One - Hundredth Meeting To Be Today

Fifty years ago, Paris welcomed a group of physicians of North Texas who met here to form the North Texas Medical Association, and today, the city once more acts as host to the same organization, which opens its one-hundredth semi-annual meeting at 9:30 on Tuesday morning at the Episcopal parish house.

An elaborate program, in special observance of the golden jubilee of the organization, and for the edification and entertainment of fully 130 persons at the convention has been planned by the Lamar County Medical Society, of which Dr. M. A. Walker is president, Dr. T. E. Hunt is chairman on arrangements and Dr. Owen O'Neill on entertainment.

Sectional meetings for discussion of surgical questions will be held both Tuesday and Wednesday mornings at the Episcopal parish house and medical meetings in the afternoons.

Dr. Walker will give the address of welcome at the opening of the convention this morning, the response by Dr. Rufus C. Whiddon of Gainesville, president of the North Texas association responding and the invocation by the Rev. Harold G. Hennessy.

This afternoon, the wives of visiting and local physicians will be guests at a picture show party at the Lamar Theatre, and at 5 o'clock, they and the physicians will attend a reception honoring the doctors of the association who have been practicing forty years or more. These daughters of local doctors, dressed in costumes of fifty years ago, will act as the reception party for this affair in the mezzanine ballroom of the Gibraltar hotel: Misses Margie McCuistion, Arra, Anna and Ruth Hammond, Mary McMillan, Nancy Palmer, Frances Hooks, Jane Fitzpatrick, Emma Louise Walker, Mary Julia Armstrong, Marjorie and Helen Jones and Elizabeth Williams. A colored orchestra will play old Southern melodies and vocal selections will be rendered by Messrs. Frank Long, Sam Cotton, Mrs. Frank Fuller and Mrs. Frean Grimes, and Mrs. Rufus C. Whid-

SENATE UPRISING BY DEMOS MARKS MEASURE REPORT

Seek Greater Program Even At Cost of Increased Income Taxes

ASKS SHORTER WEEK NATION'S EMPLOYEES

House Committee To Report Tuesday On Public Works Bill

By FRANCIS M. STEPHENSON

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8, (AP)—A Democratic uprising in the senate against President Hoover's unemployment program signalized the reporting Monday by congressional committees of the first of the emergency measures.

Led by Senator Walsh of Massachusetts, a half dozen Democrats denounced the administration proposals as a "drop in the bucket" and demanded a Democratic program of greater dimensions even at the price of increased income taxes.

Senator Robinson of Arkansas, Democratic leader, who joined in the pledge of party leaders for cooperation on relief legislation, listened intently. Already he has broken from the Hoover program on drouth relief. Tuesday the senate will take up the $60,000,000 drouth relief bill reported Monday by Chairman McNary of the agriculture committee. The administration urged $25,000,000 for this.

Walsh compared the Hoover ad-

BLAZE SWEEPS BLOCK AT LUFKIN TUESDAY NIGHT

Gasoline Tanks Explode, Hurling Flaming Oil For Some Distance

LUFKIN, Dec. 8, (AP)—Fire originating in the office of a motor company about 8:30 swept a business block here Monday night.

Buildings housing the Spain Motor company, the Lufkin Tire and Boot company and the John Sing Electric company were destroyed. The establishment of Henry's Taxi Cab company virtually was ruined by water.

Included in the loss to the Spain Motor company were a filling station, a number of automobiles in storage and a repair shop.

Only two portions of the block escaped destruction.

Cause of the fire was not determined immediately. Investigators learned, however, that a fire for heating was burning in the offices of the motor company and that small tanks outside the offices, containing gasoline, exploded. The burning oil was hurled for considerable distances.

Both of the city's pumpers got into action quickly, but, despite the fact there was no wind, seemed unable to check the spread of the flames. Observers said the water apparently spread the burning gasoline.

One person, a fireman, was overcome by smoke, but was quickly revived.

Estimates of the loss varied, but were placed between $50,000 and $75,000.

SALARIES CITY OFFICERS FIXED

Council Passes Ordinance Carrying Same Figures As Past Term

Salaries for the city officers to be elected next April were fixed by the city council in regular session Monday night. The ordinance carries the same figures as for the past term:

City secretary, $200 per month.

City recorder, $75 per month.

City marshal, $75 per month and fees, if earned, not to exceed $100 additional.

City attorney, $25 per year, and fees, if earned, not to exceed $100 per month altogether.

Mr. Summers, who wishes to operate a gas pump in front of his store on Hearn avenue, was granted permission to put the pump on the curb by a vote of three to two Aldermen Cook and Moore voting nay.

Protests against the building of a concrete sidewalk on the west side of Thirty-first street, between Lamar avenue and Clarksville street were called for and none appearing the testimony of Walter Hicks and Mrs. Frank Reha was taken. This being to the effect that the sidewalk would enhance the value of the property to the extent of the cost, the council ordered the sidewalk built and instructed advertisements for bids be published.

The bills for November were read and approved and drafts ordered issued in payment, and the council then adjourned.

League Director To Be Elected

A director-general of Lamar county interscholastic league will be elected at the teachers' banquet Friday night, December 12, at the Gibraltar hotel, according to an announcement Monday by Delbert Kyle, county superintendent. The manner of holding the county contests in debating also will be decided.

Mr. Kyle is very anxious that all teachers of the county attend this banquet as it will be the last time for him to meet with the teachers in a body. An interesting meeting is expected.

The banquet will be held at 7 o'clock and present indications are that practically every teacher in the county, outside the city of Paris, will attend. Those planning to attend are requested by Mr. Kyle to let him know in advance, so that a sufficient number of reservations may be made. Plates will be 75 cents each.

Paris Leads Texas Cities Of Like Size In Hospitals

Paris is better equipped with hospitals than any city its size in the state of Texas, and probably in the southwest. This is not an idle boast, but an undisputable fact.

Paris had the first hospital institution in Northeast Texas in the W. B. Aikin charity hospital, where is now located the Lamar hospital. The Aikin hospital was built by the late Col. W. B. Aikin in 1893 and deeded to the city of Paris.

The Aikin hospital was built primarily for a charitable institution. It accepted pay patients, but charity patients received the same treatment given pay patients. For a number of years it was the only hospital in this section. In 1900 the Allen Memorial hospital at Bonham was built, being founded by the late Col. W. B. Allen of that city.

VISITOR LAUDS PREPARATIONS BY LOCAL DOCTORS

"No city of 100,00 or more ever made more fitting or elaborate preparations for entertainment of a medical society than the Lamar county society has in preparing for the fiftieth anniversary of the North Texas Medical association here," said Dr. Rufus C. Whiddon, of Gainesville, who arrived Monday night to attend the two-day session opening Tuesday morning.

Every detail of the convention program and entertainment features arranged shows that the local organization takes a pride in welcoming the association for its jubilee meeting and the breadth of preparations indicates that the feeling is not that alone of the medical fraternity but of the entire citizenship.

"I can not begin to express my appreciation for this evidence of so deep an interest in the association and its affairs and congratulate Paris upon her royal welcome to the visiting medical men at this time."

Court Clerk For Years Sentenced For Misuse Funds

GREENSBORO, N. C., Dec. 8, (AP)—Mason W. Grant, for 17 years clerk of Guilford county superior court, Monday was sentenced to serve ten years in state's prison for forgery, embezzlement, abstraction and misapplication of Confederate pension funds.

Cuban Students Clash With Police; 3 Hurt

HAVANA, Dec. 8, (AP)—With the student situation still unsolved, and clashes with police reported with increasing frequency throughout the island, troops again were stationed at the national university Monday and precautions against serious disorders doubled.

Several students were injured Monday in a clash with police and many were arrested. Tehre was no shooting.

Poultrymen To Elect Officers

Officers for the coming year will be elected at the regular meeting of the Red River Valley Poultry association which will be held Tuesday night, December 9 at 7:30 o'clock. Reports will also be heard from the East Texas poultry show committee.

All members are urged to attend Tuesday night's meeting. It is felt that the future success of the association depends on the officers selected. Those interested in poultry development in this section of the country are invited to meet and discuss all questions pertaining to poultry growing with the association.

MACHINE GUN BANDITS LOOT BANK OF $25,000

SEACAUCUS, N. J., Dec. 8, (AP)—Robbers armed with a machine gun held up the First National Bank of Seacaucus five minutes before closing time Monday night an escaped in an automobile with $25,000.

They forced William Meisbach, the bank's president, and William Hilburt, cashier, to open the vault. Four others with guns drawn waited at the curb in a motor car.

THEATRE FIRE AT PALESTINE DOES $100,000 DAMAGE

PALESTINE, Dec. 8, (AP)—More than $100,000 damage was done by fire which wrecked the new Texas theatre, completed last September at a cost of $150,000, early Monday.

The blaze was discovered at 6 a. m., and buried more than four hours before it was brought under control. It was believed the fire started from a heating plant under the balcony stairs.

Search for Student At Pampa Fruitless

PAMPA, Dec. 8, (AP)—Police and newspapermen were unable to find a youth believed to be Morgan P. Moorer, Jr., of Asheville, North Carolina, missing University of North Carolina student in a search of boarding houses and tourists camps here Monday.

A Salvation Army captain at Galveston previously had wired Asheville police of a report that the student who disappeared from Asheville last February, had been seen here.

Bob Still Has Head--Says So Himself

Man Returning from South Sea Islands and China Writes News That He is Still Alive, Despite Reports He Was Beheaded by Rebels

Bob Roberts isn't dead.

That is, he says he isn't. And if he doesn't know, who does?

Lest all this seem irrelevant, it should be explained that Bob Roberts has been reported dead—"beheaded by the Chinee rebels," he puts it.

Bob is in Los Angeles. Being anxious to correct the impression that he left his head in the land of lotus blossoms, he addresses the Paris News thus:

"I am writing to your very valuable paper to inform some of my friends that I am not dead as it was reported some time last year. I have just arrived here from the South Seas, where I have been doing some deep-sea diving for the scientific department of the government."

Bob didn't even know of his own demise until he went to visit an old friend in Hollywood. The friend informed him that he, together with two missionaries and four Russian priests, had been beheaded.

After considering the matter from all angles, Bob wrote the letter alluded to above and admitting that there had been some difficulty with the heathen Chinee, added the astute deduction:

"As to them taking my scalp—that is the bunk."

The Chinese entanglement arose he explains, when his entire party was captured and "Kept as slaves." He says he was the last to be released, as he was sent to a prison away from the rest of the company and had been incarcerated for 17 months before his captors stopped fighting long enough to think about him.

"No doubt," says Bob, "Some one will want to know why we were put in prison. Well, at that particular time the whole Chinee nation was on the warpath, and everybody was capturing everybody that didn't belong to his faction and killing most of them. But they were mistaken in our party, for they thought for a long time that we were a group of concessionists and that they would get a big price for us. But after they were informed who we were, they just kept us and used us as mules. I got to be quite a pack animal before they released me.

"But," he concludes vehemently, "as to me being dead—that's all stuff, and as far as that goes, I don't figure on departing from this vale of tears very soon."

Oh yes—Bob is going from Los Angeles to the Kadiak Islands, if the icebergs don't stop him, he says. With which bit of information, he signs off—.

"Begging to remain your undead friend,

Bob Roberts."

POSTOFFICE WILL EMPLOY EXTRAS FOR HOLIDAYS

Employment for several extra men will be offered by the local postoffice during the holiday season, it was announced Monday by Capt. J. J. Dickerson, postmaster.

The Christmas rush means much additional work for the postoffice, Capt. Dickerson explained, and the additional volume usually is absorbed by giving regular employes overtime. This year, however, outside help will be employed chosen from among married applicants with families.

Only those who are at present out of work and have been for some time will be considered, Capt. Dickerson said.

BIT OF ENVELOPE KIDNAPING CLUE

Redwater Banker, Shot by Abductor, In Texarkana Hospital

TEXARKANA, Dec. 8, (AP)—A crumpled blood-stained piece of envelope in the pocket of a coat worn by R. W. Hanks, 55-year old Redwater banker, seriously wounded by a kidnaper, was the center of an investigation by authorities Monday night.

The coat was given the banker, along with a tattered cap, when he was abducted by a man from his home Saturday night. Officers said the kidnaper apparently wished the identity of the victim hidden and forced him to wear the coat and cap for the purpose.

The piece of envelope, found when Hanks arrived at a hospital, shot in the head, 10 miles from where he was captured, bore the typed words, "Texarkana, Texas," and the lower portions of two numerals, believed to be the last two numbers of a three-number mail address.

Search was made in homes of a residential community near where the shooting occurred in hope of locating a box number corresponding to the remnants of one on the envelope, but no arrests were made. Officers said they believed the kidnaper and attempted killer of the banker lived in the community and the letter was addressed to him.

LAVAL STRIVES TO FORM CABINET

Noted Lawyer Sought By President After Senator Barthou Fails

PARIS, Dec. 8 (AP)—A newcomer in leading French political roles, Senator Pierre Laval, noted lawyer, worked feverishly here Monday night to construct a government where an older hand had failed.

Invited Monday by President Doumergue to form a new cabinet, after the efforts of Senator Barthou had failed, Laval was meeting difficulties similar to those encountered by his veteran colleague.

The vote of the radical socialist party against inclusion of any member of the right to the new combination was renewed and apparently was the stiffest obstacle for Laval to negotiate on his way to the premiership.

Laval, however, a close friend of Aristide Briand, famous foreign minister and former Premier Andre Tardieu, appeared Monday night to have better chances of success than Barthou had.

His advantage, it was reported, lay in his decision not to insist on the entrance into the government of a member of the "right" parties, as Barthou had done. The right group advocates religious training in public schools.

Tardieu is said to have arranged with his former adherents in the right groups that they consider him their representative in the Laval cabinet. Late Monday night it was announced he had accepted without reserve the portfolio of public works in the Laval government.

Meanwhile the right groups, headed by Louis Marin, against which exclusion was pronounced by the radical socialist party, said they were not satisfied to consider Tardieu as sufficient representation in the new cabinet and will insist on another minister or two under secretaries of state.

The only three portfolios definitely decided on by Laval appeared to be Tardieu as minister of public works, Maignot as war minister and Briand as minister of foreign relations.

WON GLORY WITH U. S. MARINES

Al Woods, star fullback, being presented with the official medal of merit of the Nicaraguan Government, by H. C. "Curley" Byrd, vice-president of the University of Maryland. The award was given for heroic service performed with the United States Marine Corps in Nicaragua in 1928.

BRIEFS
About Town

Complaints of target shooting in the east part of the city have been made. It is claimed that small boys armed with target rifles are doing the shooting.

Prof. J. G. Wooten, who has been confined to his home the past few weeks has so far recovered that he was able to be out riding a short time Sunday afternoon.

Granville Matthews, former peace officer, who suffered an attack of paralysis some weeks ago, is reported as somewhat improved. He is confined to his room at the Woodland hotel.

The condition of B. B. Sturgeon, well known Paris attorney, is reported unimproved, and he is said to be gradually sinking. For years he was prominent both in state and local politics.

While attending church Sunday night Burt Evans and wife left two cloaks in their car, which was parked near the church. The garments were stolen during the services.

A bicycle stolen from the home of David Boyd Saturday night was recovered Sunday afternoon and returned to the owner. The wheel evidently had been taken just for a short ride, and then abandoned.

Deputy United States Marshal C. L. Sentell, who has been confined to St. Joseph's infirmary for the past few days, is reported some better. His sight was slightly affected.

The work of redecorating the interior of the postoffice and federal building in this city was let Saturday to Alexander Book Co., work on which will be started within a few days, it was stated Monday.

A suitcase containing a variety of clothing was stolen from the car of Jack Bracken Sunday night. The car was parked on South Eighteenth street at the time. The police were notified of the loss.

There was one plea of guilty to drunkenness in corporation court Monday morning and two cases for a similar offense were continued until Thursday, when one of the cases will be contested, it was stated.

L. B. Revell, manager of the retail division of Rodgers-Wade Furniture company left Sunday afternoon on a brief business trip to San Antonio and other points in South Texas. He is expected to return to Paris Wednesday.

The Paris Grocer Co. establishment at Clarksville was burglarized Sunday night, the thieves securing about 10,000 cigarettes, 1,000 cigars, and several thousand rounds of shotgun ammunition. The loss was reported to the local police headquarters Monday morning.

The fire department was called to the home of Colonel Waits, on North Twenty-fifth street, at an early hour Monday morning. Two rooms of the cottage were badly gutted, according to Chief Moss, with a probable loss of $800.

Jack Williamson, well known concrete contractor, who was a resident of Paris for a number of years, is in the city. Mr. Williamson has been living in Dallas since 1922, but states that he is contemplating coming back to Paris to make his home.

Reports from Texarkana are to the effect that Bob Welborn, who was moved to that place from the Paris sanitarium, is making a slow recovery from the injuries he sustained when a car fell off a grease rack here some months ago, crushing him badly.

Milton Overman, who was manager of the Grand and Plaza theaters in this city for some time, is now manager of three theaters in Corsicana, according to word received here. Mr. Overman went from Paris to Abilene, and later to Denison.

Charles Hannon, who is operating a farm on Red river, was in the city Monday. He stated that he had made a good corn crop, and was finding a ready sale for the corn. In addition to his farming activities Mr. Hannon is also feeding about 100 head of cattle and a like number of hogs.

The Paris Exchange club meets Tuesday at noon in regular weekly session. The members are very pleased with the response made to their appeal for toys, and are also grateful to the members of the central fire department, who have given liberally of their time and skill in repairing these toys for Christmas giving.

Sergeant L. F. Hinckson states that effective now there are openings in the United States service for men who have been out of the service longer than 90 days, who can qualify mentally, physically and morally. The applicant must have his discharge with him, it was stated.

Bert Aldis and wife have returned to Dallas after a short stay in the city. Prior to going to Dallas, where he is in the employ of the Northeast Texas Motor Lines, Mr. Aldis was connected with the Texas Midland and Southern Pacific railroad for some eighteen years in this city.

Effective Monday morning, the Texas and Pacific railway inaugurated its 2-cent passenger rate between Texarkana and Fort Worth, via Paris. This is the first time in the history of the road that such a rate has been made. The same rate is effective from Fort Worth to Big Spring.

Effective now, the Santa Fe railway has switched the motor car which has been running to Dallas in the afternoon to make the morning run. The steam train that operated in the morning now leaves Paris at noon, and carries a sleeper from Paris into Galveston.

Social Affairs In Clarksville

Special to The News

CLARKSVILLE, Dec. 8—The Shakespeare club met Saturday afternoon, with Mrs. Clarence Hocker.

A color scheme of red and green was carried out in every appointment.

Miss Lura Stone was the leader, and the entire program was given over to a survey or history of Clarksville, which proved intensely interesting. Mrs. Wade M. Parks related some of the "Early History of Clarksville;" Mrs. T. S. Caton gave a talk on "Clarksville Industries;" Mrs. Ross Hughston, a talk about the "City Government and Personnel;" Mrs. Clarence Hocker, "The Need of a Civic organization." Other members on the program were Mmes. E. W. Bowers, C. D. Lennox, J. H. Summers, Paul Ussery, A. D. Lennox, Marshall Heath and Miss Ruth Marable, all relating something pertaining to Clarksville, in its different phases.

Roll call having been responded to with "Landmarks and Pioneers of Clarksville," during the social hour, the hostess had very cleverly assembled a number of the pictures of these landmarks and pioneers, which she passed around to be viewed, to the great pleasure of those assembled.

Refreshments consisting of deviled crabs, heart of beets, cheese straws, crystallized pink grape fruit, ambrosia and coffee, the serving of which, Mrs. Hocker was assisted by Mmes. Willard Moore, E. W. Bowers and Nelson Gilreath.

Members present were Mmes. T. S. Caton, Jim Clark, Paul Y. Creager, Marshall Heath, Ross Hughston, E. W. Bowers, Mary Kennedy, A. D. Lennox C. D. Lennox, F. F. Marable, Wade M. Parks, J. H. Summers, Paul Ussery; Misses Ruth Marable, Georgia Swan Van Dyke, Lura Stone, and one associate member, Mrs. George McCulloch; Mrs. Willard Moore was a guest.

Birthday Party

Mrs. T. E. Gardner, Friday evening, celebrated the twelfth birthday anniversary of her daughter, Annelle, with a lovely birthday party.

Many games were played as a diversion, among them "Battle." As a result of the game among the girls, Ann Elizabeth McCulloch scored high, and was presented with a novelty bracelet, while Elizabeth Milan scored low and received a jeweled clip. Among the boys who were lucky, were R. L. Medford, Jr., who won the high score favor, a tie, while Harry Lee Caldwell received the low score prize, a handkerchief.

The honoree was the recipient of many lovely gifts.

The hostess was assisted in serving refreshments by Mrs. Nat McCulloch, John David Gardner and the honoree, Miss Annelle.

Mrs. Gardner's invitation list included Misses Betty Butcher, Ann Elizabeth McCulloch, Elizabeth Milan, Lucile Wooley, Mary Ann Lennox, Anita Porter, Katherine Gardner, Dixie Latimer, Katherine Bailye, Amelia Mae McClinton, Ruth Jamison, Jane Durrum and Murial Pearson; Masters Paul Rosenfield, Harve Holland, Harold Bailey, James Bloodworth, Ned O'Neill, Wade Knight Medford, Bobbie White, R. L. Medford, Jr., Henry Clay Bailey, Harry Lee Caldwell and John David Gardner.

New Century Club

Saturday afternoon, Mrs. J. T. McRoberts was hostess to the New Century club.

Ferns and calendulas graced mantels and cabinets, emphasizing the club colors of yellow and white.

The lesson on "Stories in Stone" was heard by Mrs. George W. Whiteman, who substituted as leader for Mrs. Saul Rosenfield.

Roll call was responded to with National Monuments. Talks and readings were given respectively by Mrs. H. L. Pearson on "Fossils and History;" by Mrs. C. D. Scaff on "Formation of Coal;" and by Miss Ethel Stanley on "The Painted Desert."

A delicious plate luncheon was served in conclusion by the hostess who was assisted by Miss Louie Norris and Mrs. George W. Whiteman.

Members present were Mmes. E. M. Bowers, A. M. Graves, B. F. Marable, J. R. McCulloch, J. T. McRoberts, E. C. O'Neill, H. L. Pearson, C. D. Scaff and George Whiteman; Misses Louie Norris, Ethel Stanley and Bena Clark.

LIFE SENTENCES OF 5 COMMUTED

Prominent Russian Engineers, Confessed Plotters Against Soviet

MOSCOW, Dec. 8, (AP)—Five prominent engineers, who at midnight heard a verdict of four supreme court judges they must die for plotting intervention in Soviet Russia, were made joyous Monday by a commutation of their sentences to ten years' imprisonment.

Three others, condemned to ten years' imprisonment by the verdict after a great public trial that lasted since Nov. 25, were given commutatino to eight years' imprisonment. All are deprived of citizenship rights for five years and their property will be confiscated.

The men whose lives were saved were Leonid Ramsin, leader of the conspirators; Alexander Fedotov, oldest of the group, who had begged piteously for mercy throughout the hearing; Victor Larichev, first assistant to Ramsin; Nicolai Charnovsky and Ivan Kalinkov.

Those whose imprisonment was reduced from 10 years to eight were Valdimir Ochkin, 30 years old and youngest of the band; Sergei Kuprianov and Xenophon Stinin.

The commutation was decided by the central executive committee of the Union of Socialist Soviet Republics, which declared that since the defendants had confessed and repented, the Soviet power could not be guided by a mere desire for revenge.

Thus was concluded a judicial investigation which was somewhat in the nature of a great public show for two weeks. It was held in the old ballroom of the house of columns, where aristocratic ladies and gentlemen of the czarist regime paraded in rich raiment, and every sitting was packed with proletarian masses of the new Russia.

All the defendants confessed fully. They took the view that they deserved no mercy because of their crimes, but would like a chance to undo their evil deeds nevertheless.

COURT TO SETTLE CASE NOW 41 YEARS OLD

MACON, Mo., Dec. 8, (AP)—In 1889 Thomas J. Billings, then 34, was hit across the head with an axe handle. This week a jury will decide if the club was in the hands of Albert Layman, 63, of Blackwell, Oklahoma.

Part of the prosecution's case was expected to hinge on testimony of G. H. Fumer, Sherman, Texas, and R. B. Turner, La Plata, Mo., owners of the store at Sue City in which the assault was committed. They will be asked to say if Layman was the assailant.

Don't let SORE THROAT get the best of you...

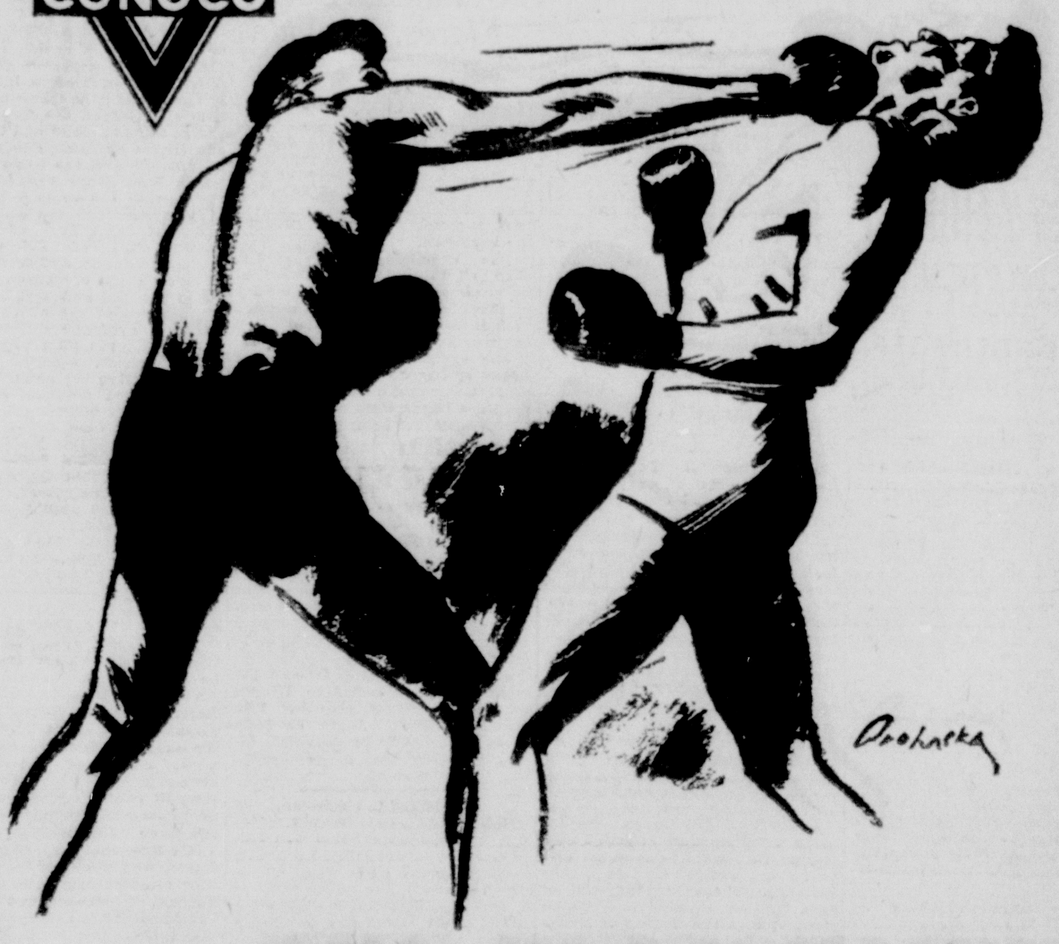

FIVE minutes after you rub on Musterole your throat should begin to feel less sore! Continue the treatment once every hour for five hours and you'll be astonished at the relief.

This famous blend of oil of mustard, camphor, menthol and other ingredients brings relief naturally. Musterole gets action because it is a "counter-irritant"—not just a salve—it penetrates and stimulates blood circulation and helps to draw out infection and pain. Used by millions for 20 years. Recommended by doctors and nurses.

Keep Musterole handy—jars and tubes. To Mothers—Musterole is also made in milder form for babies and small children. Ask for Children's Musterole.

CONOCO

THE PUNISHMENT
They Get in the First Few Minutes
Decides How Long They Will Last

And so it is with your motor . . . 40% to 60% of all motor wear occurs in the first few minutes after starting, because ordinary oils drain away in idle periods. But CONOCO Germ-Processed oil is always on guard duty, never drains away, penetrates metal surfaces, reduces starting wear.

A step on the starter always takes ordinary oils unawares, and it is then that most damage occurs in your motor. By draining away during idle periods, ordinary oils "let down their guard" and let your motor in for severe punishment at a time when protection is vitally needed.

On the other hand, Germ-Processed oil always has its guard up. It's film penetrates and clings to every working part while the motor is idle.

The first motor revolution finds ready lubrication guarding every clearance. The 40% to 60% of wear which might have taken place before you ever shift a gear is substantially reduced.

Thousands of motorists have found that this improved motor oil prolongs motor life and gives better all-round performance. You can find CONOCO Germ-Processed Motor Oil wherever you see the CONOCO Red Triangle.

FORMER JUDGE LINDSEY TO BE TRIED FRIDAY

Companionate Marriage Crusader Pleads Not Guilty to Charge

NEW YORK, Dec. 8 (AP)—Bishop William T. Manning of the Episcopal diocese of New York was subpoenaed late Monday as a witness for former Judge Ben Lindsey of Denver who Sunday was ejected from the bishop's church—the cathedral of St. John the Divine.

The bishop merely bowed as a process server handed him the subpoena. The service took place in the rectory adjoining the cathedral where Lindsey, in the presence of 3,500 morning worshippers Sunday, shouted his demands for a chance to reply to Bishop Manning's public excoration of his views on companionate marriage.

Arraigned Monday Lindsey pleaded not guilty and his case was continued until Friday. The technical charge was disorderly conduct.

Policeman William F. Hays, one of the plain clothes men who rescued Lindsey from a crowd of angry parishoners which struck and kicked him and threw him out of the cathedral when he attempteded to speak at the Sunday morning service, appeared as the complaining witness. He was unable to understand why Magistrate August Dreyer granted a continuance.

"Every one saw him jump and shout at the bishop," the officer objected. "It's plain what he did and I don't see why the case can't go on."

Arthur Garfield Hays, attorney for the former judge, said he would raise the question that a man with sufficient provocation has the right to speak out in church and would subpoena Bishop Manning to show there was sufficient provocation in the Bishop's attack on Lindsey's character, contained in his sermon.

Lindsey admitted the possibility of a slander suit against Bishop Manning and said if such a course was decided on he would retain Attorney Samuel Untermyer.

Untermeyer issued a statement upholding the right of Bishop Manning to criticize Lindsey's book on companionate marriage. But he added:

"If, however, as I understand, the true story of the Colorado prosecution of Judge Lindsey had been communicated to Bishop Manning, he had no right to broadcast from his pulpit a personal attack and then deny Judge Lindsey the right to answer it then and there."

Novelist Criticizes Lindsey

PALO ALTO, Cal., Dec. 8, (AP)—Kathleen Norris, novelist, Monday strongly criticized Ben B. Lindsey, companionate marriage advocate, in a talk before a parent-teacher congress and characterized the former Denver judge as "not fit to be allowed to speak in any American city."

Lindsey, she said, would make marriage a matter of sex alone, "instead of the tried and trusted and temperate thing that lasts on until middle life."

The former jurist, she added, with one oand woul give to girls with one hand would give to girls relations," and with the other would give them "the more dangerous gift of knowledge of birth control."

She said Lindsey had become so warped in his viewpoint by his contact with delinquency that he offered "this ridiculous solution of the problem that doesn't exist."

FORT WORTH PATIENT FEELS GREAT AGAIN

Public Stenographer Finds Relief From Indigestion Through Argotane

Fort Worth Patient

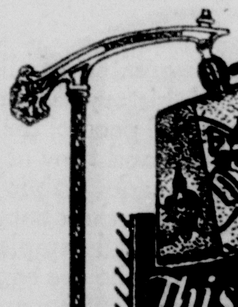

"I really feel better than I have in two or three years since Argotane has relieved me of a severe case of indigestion," said Miss Pat Taylor, of 2001 Ave. M., Fort Worth, Texas, a popular stehographer.

"My case of indigestion was the cause of a great deal of suffering she continued. "The spells came on almost everytime I ate and they were followed by gas formations. The food formed into a hard ball in the pit of my stomach and the gas pressed upward until I felt as though it were trying to push my stomach through my throat. It surely was uncomfortable I was aways tired and worn out. In fact, I was just as tired when I got up in the mornings as I had been when I went to bed.

"A friend of mine had been taking Argotane and when I heard of the good resuts she was obtaining I started the treatment myself. Relief came to me immediately, for in just a few days I began to feel better. The tired worn out feeling began to leave me and my food no longer hurt me and now I can eat anything I want without suffering from indigestion or gas formations. I have so much more pep and energy and everything and Argotane did it. I am very glad to recommend it."

Genuine Argotane may be bought in Paris at the Palace Drug Store.—Adv.

Linen Shower Is Given For Mrs. Billingsley

Miss Elizabeth Dudley was the hostess at a linen shower honoring Mrs. Everett Billingsley, a bride of the past month, the affair being given at the home of Mrs. James Hall. Eighteen guests were present, among them Mrs. C. O. McCain, Jr., of Springfield, Mo.

The time was spent in various ways, the guests writing favorite recipes for the bride, and in a contest, Miss Nora Elizabeth Edwards won the prize, a silver bud vase.

A novel means was used for presentation of the shower gifts, an umbrella being hung over the dining room table and decorated with hearts, to each of which was tied a cord which led to a hidden article.

Toward the close of the evening a delightful dessert course was served.

Shaddix-Leach Wedding Saturday Afternoon

Dr. R. B. Leach returned Sunday from St. Louis where he accompanied his daughter, Miss Margaret Leach, for her marriage Saturday afternoon, to Austin V. Shaddix, the ceremony taking place at 5 p. m. at the manse of the West Presbyterian church, the pastor, the Rev. William B. Lampe officiating. The ceremony was attended by a few intimate friends, and the bride was given in marriage by her father.

The couple are now at home at 3914 Maffitt street in St. Louis.

The bride is the youngest daughter of Dr. Leach and his late wife, and has spent most of her life in Paris. After graduation from the Paris high school and the junior college, she studied further at the East Texas Teachers' college, and for the past five years has been a member of the faculty at East Paris school. She has a wide circle of friends in social and church circles here.

Mr. Shaddix comes of a well known family in Cass county, Texas, and for some time past has been connected with Swift and company in St. Louis.

Three tables were arranged, the beth Edwards won the high score prize, a pretty brass tray, which she presented to the bride. A variety of attractive gifts was also given to the honoree.

For refreshment, a salad course was served.

Baptist Pastor Speaks on Fear

At the First Baptist church Sunday morning a quartet of women sang "I Am Satisfied with Jesus", after which Dr. W. M. Wright the pastor read the Scripture lesson, using Psalm 27 for his text and "Freedom From Fear" as his subject.

Dr. Wright after reading the first verse of the psalm "The Lord is my light and my salvation; whom shall I fear? The Lord is the strength of my life; of whom shall I be afraid?" said: "Fear is a pronounced characteristic of the human race. Some of us fear one thing and some another, but there is something in the life of everyone that they are afraid of—the fear of being old, of privation and property, of hardships, and a thousand other things that come to us, but still we fear them even though we believe that God will take care of us through all trials.

"Why do we fear death the way that we do? Because we know that our God is a sin-hating God and that he will always hate the thing that created hell, an destroyed the happiness of this world.

"All through our lives there are certain rules that govern our conduct, and when we break one of them, we are certain to be punished, and so it is with God. He has certain laws for us and when we break one of them, it is essential that he punish us and he has different ways of doing this. In Romans 8 we have this promise, "For the law of the spirit of life in Christ Jesus hath made me free from the law of sin and death."

"Shall we fear Satan? I know that he can get into our churches into our cities, into our homes and that he has certain power over us when we fight him onehanded. He cannot get us down but can only suggest that we do wrong, and we must do that thing ourselves.

"Shall we fear death? When we come to die and if we have lived a life for the devil, certainly we shall fear death, but if our life has been lived in one accord with that of Jesus Christ, we shall not fear death, but shall enter that eternal home."

At the evening service, Earl Dale sang "The Holy City" and Dr. Wright took for his subject "World Salvation".

PRA WORKER WILL BROADCAST TODAY

Members of the Parent-Teacher associations of the city will be interested in listening in on the radio talk over WFAA, Dallas, at 10:45 Tuesday morning, by Mrs. Clarence Echols of Dallas on the work being done in that city to keep the underprivileged child in school.

Members of the local associations have done much along this line in the way of providing school supplies, clothing and other necessities, and should find some new ideas on the subject in Mrs. Echols' talk.

Just Among Us Girls

John Barrymore Genius As Hero Of "Moby Dick"

John Barrymore is at the Lamar theater, in his third Warner Brothers and Vitaphone picture, "Moby Dick," an adaptation of Herman Melville's immortal classic of whaling days, of the same name. Last night's audience gave long and hearty approval to the thrilling sequences of this greatest of sea-tales, and to the magnificent performance of the man who is accepted as America's greatest actor. Lovely Joan Bennett plays the daughter of the New Bedford minister who is loved by both mad Ahab and his brother, masterfully portrayed by Lloyd Hughes. Scenes are taken at sea, in the midst of wild storms, and the mutiny of the crew, the hand-to-hand conflict between the brothers, the battle with the white whale, and the final killing of the dreaded monster by Ahab, are unbelievably moving. Lloyd Bacon directed. Don't fail to see John Barrymore in his greatest part, the hero of "Moby Dick."

Many Trappers Red River County

CLARKSVILLE, Dec. 8.—Since Dec. 1, over 170 trappers' licenses have been issued in the county clerks' office of Red River county.

Much interest continues in oil as is attested by the many leases being filed for record in the county clerks's office.

J. E. Chisum of Dallas is in Clarksville making an ownership map of Red River county. The Magnolia Petroleum company is sponsoring the work. When completed the map will be valuable.

TWO JURORS CHOSEN IN TRIAL OF SOLDIER

SAN ANTONIO, Dec. 8, (AP)—Two jurors had been chosen to try Donald Walker, Fort Sam Houston soldier, on the charge of murder of Daniel Uhr, 50, a bedridden paralytic October 16, when the 37th district court adjourned for the day Monday afternoon. The jurors were a farmer and a fireman. Only 25 of the 300 veniremen had been examined when the day's session ended.

sick, a group of men got together in 1910 and purchased the site of the old John Martin home, the lot extending from Bonham street through to Kaufman. In 1912 the organization of the Sanitarium of Paris was perfected and plans laid to build a modern hospital.

The sanitarium started off with a paid-up capital stock of $75,000, and the first building was completed and thrown open to the public on the 12th day of April, 1914. So rapidly did the needs for more room and more facilities multiply that in 1929 it was decided to add an annex to the old building, and this was done at a cost of approximately $100,000.

The contract for the annex was let in November, 1929, and was completed during the past summer, giving nearly double the number of rooms and facilities that the first structure possessed.

Besides the Sanitarium of Paris is St. Joseph's infirmary, another modernly equipped and conducted hospital. St. Joseph's infirmary was thrown open to the public in 1914, work having started in 1912. St. Joseph's infirmary is located at the corner of Twenty-sixth and Clarksville streets and has added much to the reputation of the city as a hospital center.

The old Aikin hospital, which was the forerunner for the two above named, had fallen into bad repair, and in 1926 was taken over by the county of Lamar and a bond issue was floated to build a new and modern hospital on the site of the old building.

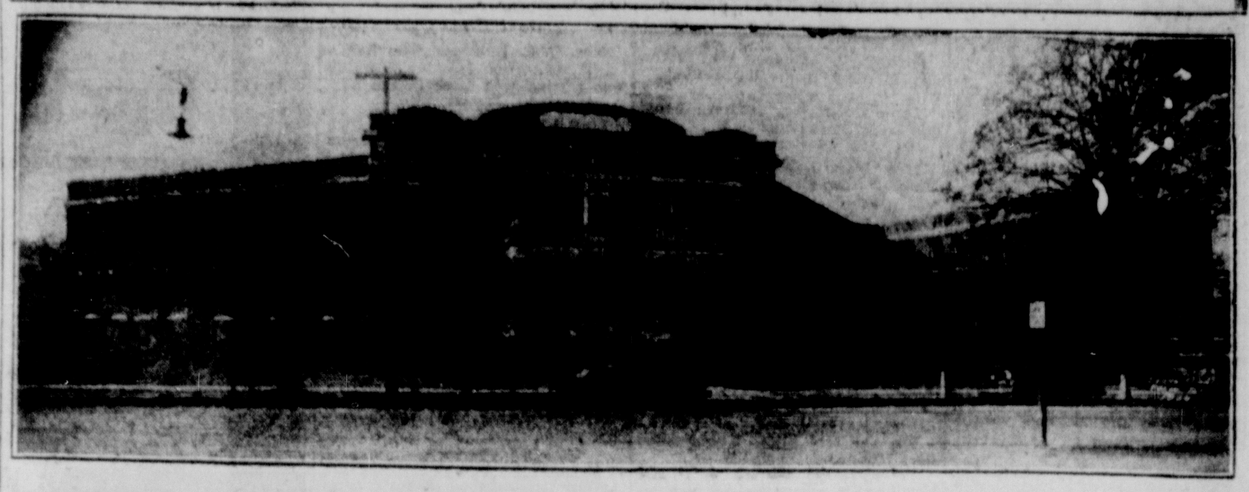

This building was completed some four years ago and is another institution of which both the city and the county are proud. It still shelters charity patients, with Lamar county footing the bills for this work. The Lamar hospital also accepts pay patients, and is an institution that is in keeping with the progress of Paris and its reputation for being the hospital center of Northeast Texas.

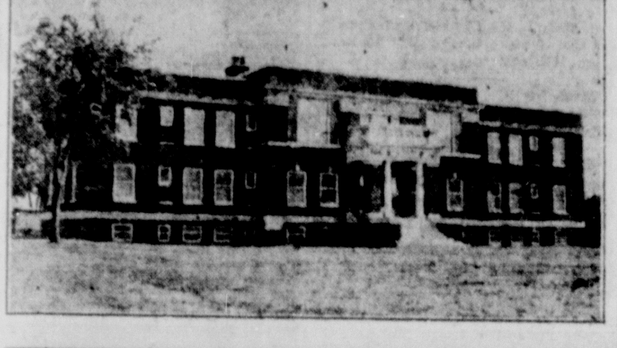

Each institution named is officered by a capable staff, and boasts some of the best medical and surgical talent to be found in any city. People from a wide area come to Paris to be cared for, and leaving carry with them the kindly message that Paris and its three institutions send out to the afflicted world.

Just what these three institutions mean in dollars and cents to the city is beyond computation, and what has been done to relieve suffering humanity is still further beyond human computation. The city and county is proud of the work that has been done, and proud of the citizenship that has made them possible.

Exports of construction machinery from the United States are greater than a year ago.

Clarksville Yesterday And Today Reviewed By Literary Club Members

Some of the high lights of the program given by some of the members of the Clarksville Shakespeare club Saturday afternoon.

Excerpts from Mrs. Wade M. Parks paper, on "Early History of Clarksville."

"Clarksville was founded in 1823 by James Clark and his wife, Isabella Hopkins Clark who came here from Kentucky locating here because of an inexhaustible spring located where the Chevrolet Motor company now is. Other families hearing of this spring began moving here and Clarksville began to grow. For the sake of protection these families placed themselves under the laws of the Territory of Arkansas, and the entire country around became known as Miller county, Arkansas.

The first house was owned by James Clark and was built by the Smathers, and was situated just east of where the opera house now sands, one room of which was used for a store. Immediately after this, Mr. Smathers built a house for himself, which is now owned by Mrs Isabella Demorse Latimer. Not long after this, Clark built a store house where Ellis Goodman's filling station now stands.

The first charter was granted to this republic by congress in 1834 and the town was incorporated in 1837.

The first court house was a frame building in the center of the square at Clarksville and was built by Gilbert Clark, who was a preacher as well as a carpenter. At a later date this was replaced by a two story brick building enclosed by a plank fence around which racks were built where horses were hitched.

The first church was built in 1834 in the southeastern part of town, just west of the negro Baptist church, and was used by all demonstrations and the first school was taught there by Gilbert Clark.

The first Methodist Church was located opposite the Wm. Bowers home, now the Clyde Milan home; the first Baptist church was built where the Baptist Cemetery now is, and the first Presbyterian church in the town, was on the site where the present building now stands.

In these days, Clarksville was known as an educational center. McKenzie college was opened in 1841, four miles west of town, in a log cabin, with ten boys comprising the student body. Girls were admitted afterwards, and the school grew to such proportions, that pupils were admitted from Arkansas, Louisiana, Missouri and the Indian territory, as it was then known. Soon three large building were erected, one of which is now standing. This college continued until 1868.

Other schools of the town were taught by Mrs. Todd in the house now owned by Sam Porter, Dr. Burrows, the Misses Gattis, and Rev. John Anderson.

The first music teachers were Prof. Plagge, a German of great talent, Miss Carrie Gattis and Mrs. Anderson.

In 1841 there were only three frame houses in Clarksville.

Col. Charles DeMorse published the first newspaper in 1841—"The Northern Standard."

"The first circus came to town in 1839 and stayed through winter. The big top was stretched where Lee Hayes now resides.

The first hotel was built in 1839 by William Donoho on the site of the new Donoho Hotel, on the north half of the west side of the present square.

The first cabinet maker was Mr. Durfee, and his shop was located where the Joe Smith boarding house now stands. Afterwards it was sold to Jasper Longe. A few pieces of furniture made by Mr. Durfee are still owned by old families.

Mr. Shanahan operated the first restaurant or cafateria, where he sold persimmon and root beer and ginger cakes, which were the most luscious things my childish eyes ever beheld.

The railroad was finished through Clarksville in 1876. Prior to that all our cotton was hauled to Jefferson, the freighters bringing back dry goods, groceries and other supplies.

The first opera house was in the second story of Cliff Adams barn, and the most wonderful actors and actresses graced the stage, giving such thrilling plays as "Ten Nights in a Barroom" and others of like character.

Earlier than this, concerts were the favorite entertainments, and balls and dances were of frequent occurrence.

The first magic lantern show was in the upper story of Doak's store. Wonderful, thrilling and marvelous they were—one picture was the "Sarcophagus of Abraham," all pictures explained by operator.

Excerpts from the paper of Mrs. Paul Y. Creager, on "The History of the Clarksville Churches."

First Christian church, Disciples of Christ. Its property on East Broadway was obtained from Dr. E. S. Look and deeded to H. I. Jones, Sr., of Bagwell and J. L. Van Dyke of Clarksville as trustees, and to their successors, for the use of the church, and in 1882, a part of the present building was erected and later added to. Miss Eliza B. Gordon gave music lessons to help pay for this building. Among the names of its charter members are Mrs. W. M. Gordon, Mrs. Ann McCullouch, Mrs. George E. Burdett, Judge E. S. Chambers and Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Gough, of Paris.

New location is to be on West Main street, where a brick or stone church is to be erected in the early spring made possible through the legacy of the late Mrs. Pete Bollinger.

Present pastor, Rev. C. E. Chambers of Dallas from the board of extension.

McKenzie Memorial church, Methodist Episcopal Church, South.

Organized in 1832, the first building was where the Zion Traveller Baptist chuch (colored) now stands. A burying ground was also there. The second building a two story structure was located where Cliff Adams livery barn now stands, the church using the lower floor, and the Masonic lodge the upper floor. While in this building Tom Gaines, Sam B. Stanley and Mrs. Pinkie Washington became members, Mr. Gaines joining in 1872.

The third building erected is still standing at the corners of South Walnut Street and Washington Ave., and the present brick building was erected in 1901 on the corner of West Broadway and Delaware.

The McKenzie family and members of the college, of whom the fifth generation now comes to the church, form an interesting chapter in the history of this church.

Miss Maggie Beedle (niece of Mrs. Jap Dinwiddie) went from this church to the foreign mission field (China).

At a conference held here many years ago, Rev. H. C. Hand, the present pastor, was ordained to the ministry. Rev. Coy Williams and Rev. Hugh Anderson went out from this church.

The First Baptist church (Southern Baptist Convention).

No record of date of organization. The first building, was in the Clarksville cemetery, near the main entrance. Dr. Buckner (father of Buckner's Orphans Home) preached in this building, coming on horse back from Paris, once a month.

Dr. F. M. McConnell was once a pastor of this church, and while here performed the marriage ceremony of Mr. and Mrs. Jap D. Barry. The second building, Cliff Adam's barn, and this building, or a part of it, still stands. The old Methodist church was used for a while before moving into the present brick building, on South Walnut street, built in 1905 under the supervision of Rev. L. H. Finney now of Waco.

Among the names of the early members are Chas. Dale, John Dale, and Mr. and Mrs. William Bowers.

Rev. J. Porter Neal is the present pastor.

First Presbyterian Church (Presbyterian Church of U. S. A.) organized in 1833 at Shiloh, about four miles east of Clarksville.

The Bagby's, Latimers and Ritchie's were among the charter members.

The first meeting there, was held in a grove, and at this service the wine for the sacrament was made from poke berries. The church moved to Clarksville in 1834 and the first building was on the present location, corner of Pecan and Church streets. It was built with a gallery in the back for slaves and a partition through the center to separate the ladies from the men. Rev. Bacon first preached here, but the Rev. Samuel Corley was the first pastor. This church was torn down and a more modern structure was built and was burned and was replaced in 19-5 by the present brick building. There are five generation from Dr. Corley and also from the James Latimer family (one a charter member) who are still members of this church here. Rev. L. D. Parker is the present pastor.

Christ's church (Episcopal) organized in 1869. The present location was purchased from Rev. Anderson, a southern Presbyterian minister who conducted a school there. This frame building was used until the present stone building was erected in 1923, at the corner of West Main and Delaware. Rev. Starr was the first rector. Among the charter members were Mrs. J. M. Lane, aunt of Mrs. John W. O'Neill and Mrs. R. G. Lane, aunt of Mrs. D. H. Taylor and Miss Maggie Bagby. Mrs. Clara Bagby became a member later, and through her there are four generations who attend this church. Rev. H. G. Hennessy o fParis, is the present pastor.

St. Joseph's (Roman Catholic Church). Organized in 1873. The frame church erected then on East Main St., was in use until it burned in May of this year. They are just completing a brick building on the same site. They have a cemetery immediately on the south and across the street from the church. Until recently they conducted St. Joseph's academy, a boarding and day school.

Among the early members were Mrs. I. H. Morrison, Mrs. James Clark the Owen's, Huneke's, Goeltz and Donovan's.

The Lutheran church occupied the frame building on South Walnut street, erected years ago by the Southern Presbyterians. There are three colored churches, Zion Travellers (Baptist) St. James (Baptist) and St. John's Methodist.

At the THEATERS

Last Day at Grand.

Now is the time when all good men should come to the aid of motion picture producers who set out to demonstrate the superiority of the screen over the stage.

For this is exactly what has been done in the picturization of that Broadway hit, "Good News," which Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer revealed yesterday at the Grand theater.

Abe Lyman's Band Scores.

All of the verve and humor of the original book by Schwab and De Sylva have been preserved by Frances Marion, who adapted it for the screen, and the lilting De Sylva, Henderson and Brown score has been enhanced by some new interpolated numbers, all rendered symphonically by Abe Lyman's famous band.

The cast—including a number of principals of the stage show—is headed by Bessie Love, who teamed with Gus Shy, romps away hilariously with comedy honors. Bessie is great in her mirthful moments, and Shy, a newcomer to the screen, threatens to be a cinematic riot. The romance is charmingly carried by Stanley Smith and Mary Lawlor, with Lola Lane providing plot motivation.

Doctors Testify In Shepard Trial

KANSAS CITY, Dec. 8, (AP)—Medical terms supplanted customary legal references at the trial of Major Charles A. Shepard, alleged uxoricide here Monday, two medical men among five army officers witnesses testifying Mrs. Zenana Shepard died from a slow acting poison.

Major Paul R. Hawley, chief medical officer at Fort Riley, Kas., a year and a half ago, when the defendant's wife died at the post, said an autopsy revealed death by slow poisoning.

Major M. E. Dufrenne, of Fort Crook, Neb., who attended Mrs. Shepard during her illness, testified he believed death was caused by poisoning. In signing the death certificate the physician gave the cause of death as gastroenteritis (inflamation of the stomach)

Time Baby's Bath

Baby's bath should be given as nearly possible at the same hour each day and timed to be finished when the next feeding is due. At first the duration of the bath should be only about 3 minutes. Later it may be 5 minutes and as the child grows older and stronger he may be allowed to play in the water for about 15 minutes, as the skin absorbs some water, which is benefical to the system. Besides this, the water relaxes the muscles and aids in overcoming many wrong conditions.

After the bath dry baby by gently patting, not rubbing, with a soft towel. Then dust a good baby powder in the creases and folds of the skin and around the buttocks. This absorbs any excessive moisture, prevents friction, chafing, "urineburn" and redness. Probably the best powder for the purpose is McKesson's Baby Powder. It contains a premium grade talc, consisting of very fine, soft flakes rather than pointed particles, with other ingredients, soothing and refreshing to baby's tender skin. In addition it has a deodorizing effect that preserves that "fresh baby smell" which mother loves so much and does not want to vulgarize with a palpable perfume. It is a real medicinal powder—entirely different from any other. Daily bathing of baby with daily use of McKesson's Baby Powder will keep baby's skin smooth, white and comfortable, which, probably will do more than anything else to keep him a happy and contented baby. All McKesson Service Druggists and other independent drug stores sell and guarantee McKesson's Baby Powder. Get a can today and see how baby will gurgle his thanks. A

TEXAS U. FRAT GETS SUSPENSION

Lambda Chi Alpha Closed Until 1932 Following Death of Woman

AUSTIN, Dec. 8, (AP)—Lambda Chi Alpha, university of Texas fraternity, was suspended until Sept. 1, 1932 by the faculty committee on the administration of students affairs Monday following completion of the investigation into a party at the chapter house Thanksgiving night at which Mrs. Mildred Woodruff, 24, San Antonio, died of acute alcoholic poisoning.

V. I. Moore, dean of student life, said the fraternity had been found guilty of improper administration of its affairs and was suspended immediately. The order required closing the fraternity house and virtual disbandment until the start of the 1932 school year. The chapter was prohibited holding meetings, other than those necessary to closing the house, and was barred from rushing activities or making pledges.

Dean Moore said the committee was determined to maintain the principle of group responsibility in the administration of affairs of fraternities and that fraternity officers would be held responsible for any violations of the university rules.

Two students both members of the fraternity, were expelled from school several days ago by the faculty discipline committee after an investigation.

Defendant In Murder Trial Testifies Monday

AUSTIN, Dec. 8, (AP)—Ed Swearingen of Lockhart, on trial here for the murder of Carter Flowers in Dec. 1927, took the stand in his own behalf Monday testifying he knew nothing of the stabbing of Flowers until the morning after it occurred. He said he had been under the influence of liquor and a drug for several hours preceding the stabbing and could remember none of the details. The case was expected to go to the jury Tuesday.

Lone Grave Holds Six Of Family Who Died In Explosion

TORRENT, Ky., Dec. 6, (AP)—One large grave in the mountains six miles south of here, Monday received the bodies of six members of one family, all victims of an explosion and fire which destroyed their home near here early Saturday. The road to the grave was too rough for automobile travel and the dead, a father and mother and four children, were taken to their final resting place in a two-horse wagon.

Those buried were Leonard Arnold, 34, oil field worker ,the husband, who was burned to death on returning to the house after carrying the bodies of three children into the yard; Mrs. Cynthia Arnold, 27, the wife, who died Sunday in a hospital at Winchester, and the four Arnold children, one only a babe in arms.

The sole survivor of the family, Opal Arnold, 7, lay near death in a Winchester hospital while her parents and brothers and sisters were being buried.

LOANS FOR FOOD MOVE IN WRONG DIRECTION SAYS SECRETARY HYDE

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8, (AP)—On the eve of consideration by both branches of congress of relief measures, secretary Hyde Monday night issued a statement warning that the loaning of money for human food came "perilously near" a dole and was a move in the wrong direction.

It was such a provision, written into the senate drought relief bill, that largely was responsible for an increase of $35,000,000 above the administration's recommendation.

Legal Battle Looms In Mail Fraud Case

FORT WORTH, Dec. 8, (AP)—A long legal battle appeared imminent in the United States district court here Monday where Lee F. Reardon and Joe A. Hoover went on trial on charges of using the mails to defraud. They were indicted jointly in connection with the promotion of the Yates Ranch Oil and Royalties company. The jury was completed during the afternoon and first of the many witnesses subpoenaed by the government were place on the stand.

The mail fraud case against Ben O. Smith, Sr., was dismissed when Ben O. Smith, Jr., indicted with his father, changed his plea of not guilty" to guilty and was sentenced to a year and a day in the federal penitentiary at Leavenworth. This sentence was suspended for five years by Federal Judge James C. Wilson.

JUST AN ADDITION

LEVYING of a state income tax by the legislature which will meet in Austin in Januaary (120 days at $10 per day) may be expected.

Several members have stated in more or less positive language that a bill is being prepared. Governor Dan Moody is said to hvae recommended such a tax last year but it failed to get through.

In many respects an income tax is the fairest method of levying for governmental expenses, especially if there is collecting machinery as well organized as that of the United States government, with certainly enforced penalties for evasion of the tax. Whether Texas could equitably and surely collect such a tax without a great increase in the number of collectors and consequent diminution of the net return remains to be seen.

Theoretically an income tax is supposed to lighten the burden of the ad valorem tax, or abolish it entirely, but there will be no chance of this being done in Texas. The legislature is looking for new tax sources, not for lessening of the burden already carried.

There will be no reduction in the personnel of the various boards and commissions and investigations that require several $10 a day legislators and the travel expenses of witnesses will be as usual. Taxes can not be reduced unless expenditures are reduced and no legislator is going to be in favor of cutting off the pay of anybody he has helped get on the roll.

We will have the income tax, very probably, and it will be in addition to, and on top of all the others.

BANKS AND PROGRESS

To people unacquainted with the inside workings of banking it appears that the bank as far as progress is concerned, stands still. Changes within the structure of course, can take place, but gradually and for this reason it seems to many that the bank of today is pretty much the same in its essential characteristics and methods as the bank with which the great-grandfather of this generation did business. The American bank, however, could not have stood still. Its importance in the economic scheme of the nation has forced it to grow with the country.

There are evidences that American banking is approaching a new era of great improvement. Constructive banking movements now under way throughout the country promise to make stronger banks, more efficient banks, banks offering a wider service, better understanding of banking both in and out of the cage, closer alliances between banks and public, greater respect for the banking profession and wiser spending and more systematic saving.

Communities are vitally interested in bigger and better banks. The old fashioned, tradition-bound bank that refused to adjust itself to changed conditions not only throttles its own development but that of the territory it professes to serve. An efficient, progressive helpful banking institution reflects itself in a prosperous and industrious community.

The fact that the United States and its thousands of cities and towns have prospered and made progress is the best proof that its banks have not stood still. To no small extent is the development of the country traceable to the functions ably assumed by its providers of credit. Bankers must keep step with progress, and usually do.

EMANCIPATION OF THE MALE

THE white starched collar has happened upon melancholy days. The thin air of respectability that once surrounded it, making it somewhat an object of envy to the soft-collar classes, has vanished into thinner air, the collar departing with it. If the horny-handed sons of toil look upon it as a badge of anything, it is as a badge of servitude to custom and to an obsolete fashion.

The significance was knocked out of that graphic phrase, "the white collar job" by the coming into fashion of matched shirts and collars of bright tints and striped effects. Further adoption of the soft and semi-soft collar will make of the old type of starched a museum curiosity, excepting of course these styles still resorted to for formal evening attire.

In this revolutionary age one is apt to find the blue shirt with attached collar of identical color and material in the swivel chair and behind the counter as in the engine cab and at the lathe. If there is any difference it is the grade of the material and the shade of blue.

It is is a good wind that blows nobody any ill and in this instance considerable ill seems to have been wafted in the direction of laundrymen, manufacturers of laundry starch and that noble band of workers who in the past have derived such consummate enjoyment out of referring derisively to the white-collar classes.

MUSCLE SHOALS PROBLEM AND LAME DUCK MEASURE REGARDED OUTSTANDING

By Nicholas Longworth

Speaker, House of Representatives

GENERALLY speaking, the purpose is to put ahead the annual appropriation bills so as to prevent any excuse for an extra session of congress. The formulation of the aprropriation bills is in very good shape. It is possible that three of these annual supply measures will pass the house before the holiday recess.

I am wholly opposed to an extra session of congress. I think the slow recovery of business is largely due to the prolonged extra session of this congress and another extra session would only retard business recovery.

There are two outstanding matters to be settled. One of these is the settlement of the problem of Muscle Shoals: the others is the so-called lame duck resolution.

We have expended a great deal of money, something like $450,000,000, I believe, on the Muscle Shoals plant. We have expended all that money, the plant is there and something should be done with it.

I never was in favor of the original Muscle Shoals legislation, but the money has been expended and the big government-owned plant is there awaiting action.

Regarding the lame duck proposal, I have never opposed its consideration by the house. There should be an amendment to the pending resolution to provide for a termination of the short session, as the terms as they now stand would leave both sessions intermediate, with the possibility of congress being in session through the two years.

If the house will put on an amendment to prescribe a terminating date for the second session, I am in favor of the lame duck resolution.

Unemployment legislation of a conservative and economic nature should be passed at this December session. Immigration, of course, is related to unemployment.

As to railroad legislation, I understand there is no agreement on that subject.

I do not want to discuss the World Court because that is a matter for the other branch of congress.

WHAT OTHERS SAY

SEEING TEXAS FIRST

From the Cleveland Plaindealer:

LAST May a great many citizens of Sherman, Texas, decided to lynch a negro. A thoughtful sheriff locked the negro in a cell in the courthouse and the citizens not finding their prey, burnthe house. It proved to be an indirect method of lynching for the negro died in the fire.

Fourteen residents of Sherman were arrested and charged with the crime of "rioting to commit arson." It was impossible to obtain a jury in Sherman and the case was transferred to the large city of Dallas in hope of providing a trial.

Now in Dallas the summoned jurymen have declared one after another, that they would not under any circumstances consent to find the defendants guilty. There is a good judge in Dallas, though and his name is Pippin. He vigorously denounced the attitude of the veniremen, and instead of calling the whole business off and freeing the defendants he transferred the case to Austin the state capital in the hope that Austin may do something about it.

So the fourteen are having a chance to see Texas first. And the men of Sherman and Dallas who decline to consider evidence or to find the rioters guilty no matter how guilty they may really be are setting a sorry example of Texas civilization. One hopes Austin will be more enlightened, or at least a little saner. But the hope is not any too strong.

THOSE VIRGINIANS

From the Denison Herald:

THE story of the homesick souls who were chained in heaven, is of doubtful origin: but we believe it must have originally been told on the Virginians. For if there is a spot on earth which holds the love of its natives, it is Virginia. History is full of this devotion. The Old Dominion has furnished the nation with some of its most illustrious men, but never have we found where one denied the place of his birth. Always Virginia came first in their affection, their adopted state second.

A few years ago, Miss Nancy Langhorne, a comely Virginia girl, married a member of the famous Astor family. They went to England and Mrs. Astor became a British subject. Her husband being knighted by the king, she became the Viscountess Astor. Now, for an ordinary American girl to become a lady of the realm in the most conservative and aristocratic country on earth, would, it would appear, be enough to fill her heart with pride. She is proud of her title, no doubt, but her heart still goes back to Virginia. Recently, speaking in the British House of Commons, in which she holds a seat, Lady Astor said, "I'm still a passionate Virginian. If I lived away from my country for a hundred years, I would still be a Virginian."

Though he was opposed to slavery and secession, Robert E. Lee resigned from the United States army and entered the Confederate service when Virginia seceded. George Washington, to the end of his days, remained a Virginia gentleman.

CHRISTMAS MOURN!

ALL of US

By Marshall Maslin

The Big Balloon Ascension

Remember the days of the Big Balloon Ascensions?

We had them in our town and they were the most exciting days in the year—more exciting than the Fourth of July, more exciting that Christmas. And, what's more, they deserved to be!

Take it! A balloon was going to be filled with gas! A man was going to go up with that balloon! He was going to cut himself loose and come down with parachute! Something might happen! He might even be killed!

Every kid in town was there, helping to fill the Big Bag—hanging around—talking things over—criticizing the arrangements—giving a hand—hanging onto the ropes—being important!

There swung the bag, over the open fire ,slowly filling with gas, swaying and bellying in the breeze. What was that stuff that fellow was throwing on the fire—gasoline or kerosene? Must be kerosene. Anyway, it filled the bag. . .

Look at that bag now, pulling away, yearning toward the heavens, impatient to be free. Gosh! suppose a kid got caught in one of the ropes and was pulled up with the balloon! What would happen to him? How could he escape? . . .You'd better be careful, you kids!

And where was the Marvelous Death-Defying Balloon Jumper? Had anybode seen him? Maybe he'd lost his nerve. . .Maybe there wouldn't be any Ballon Ascension after all. Aw, don't worry—he'll be there, all right. . And of course he WAS there! Just five minutes before the awful hour of 2 o'clock sharp he arrived . . . and he was disappointing! He walked with that springing, ungraceful stride of the trapeze performer on the ground, but he was so skinny. . . his legs were so thin. . . his knees knocked. . : his tights were shabby and stained . . . he didn't look like a hero, he looked like a common man.

He stood around and tested ropes, he spread his parachute out and attached it to the big bag, he told everybody to let go when he gave the word, he waited and he waited and he waited—that Common man who was about to do an uncommon thing. . .And finally he left us—with a whoop, and swish and a leap of his heart, with dargling ropes, before 2,000 pale and upturned faces he left us. Waving his hands, dangling by his knees, while a trumpet blew and a big drum went boom-boom-boom, that ordinary fellow left us for the perilous skies.

Up and up and up he went, hanging below that gas-filled bag, and then—just as we thought he was leaving us forever—he cut himself loose and his wide parachute bloomed like a great flower against the blue heaven and he floated casually down and landed over on the Salsipuedes road by the Stillman place—and his bag flapped and flopped and poured out gas and turned over and over and fell in an oak tree half a mile further on, and frightened a cow out of giving any milk that night. . .

And we all ran out the road to meet the Marvelous Fellow and when he came riding back with his parachute and his bag we stared—and we stared—and we stared. He Like Anybody Else, but he'd gone this amazeing thing. He looked Just Like Anybody Else, blut he'd gone up in a balloon! We couldn't make him out— so we just looked at him!

And I, for one have been looking at him ever since. I've seen him a thousand times since that far-off day. I see him in common, unimpressive faces everywhere, and whenever I do I say to myself: "He looks like a commonplace fellow, but you never can tell. He might go up in a balloon some day. He might do something brave. He may be a hero inside. You never can tell about people!"

A NEW YORKER AT LARGE

By Mark Barron.

NEW YORK, (AP)—Below Chambers street, just off the water front, there are a dozen blocks which used to be known as "Nut Village." It earned its title through an unusual commercial circumstance.

This section is entirely occupied by radio stores. Here you can buy every sort of radio at almost any price. There was a time, before a law was passed silencing the neighborhood, when every radio store in the district had a loud speaker at its front door.

A hundred different programs would be playing at the same time, and it actually sounded as if one were in a mad house of a million shrieking maniacs.

Clerks working in the district could not stand the strain, and after hearing a few months of it they were threatened by insanity.

Our municipal government looked on this situation, passed a law banning loud speakers in the neighborhood, and now all is quiet below Chambers street.

Little Ireland.

Back of Madison Square Garden are a half dozen blocks of red brick tenement houses. The section might be called Little Ireland, for it is inhabited almost entirely by one-time subjects of Erin.

There is a certain newsboy who has been selling papers in this neighborhood for years, and he has built up a profitable trade. Especially does he do a big business with extra editions on nights when there are prize fights in the Garden.

However, the night when Billy Petrolle buried Jimmy McLarnin in the canvas there were no fight extras sold in the Irish neighborhood.

"It's this way," the newsboy explained. "I don't dare take any extras in there saying McLarnin was licked. Some of those Irishmen would have knocked my block off!"

Gift List.

The Christmas season is here, and this department feels that it should suggest a few appropriate gifts to be given persons of more or less importance.

To Mayor Walker—a sharp edged axe with which he can make not too loving gestures towards those practical jokers who always send him alarm clocks.

To Peggy Hopkins Joyce—a typewriter so she can begin writing her memoirs.

To Earl Sande—a medal for one person who can ignore the 18-day diet and still keep his weight down to a reasonable figure.

To Texas Guinan—a silencer.

To Rudy Valee—the address of an optician who can open his eyes when he sings.

To Lya de Putti and Colleen Moore—some sort of medal for bravery. Because they were movie stars they thought they should be stage stars and decided to find out. They found out differently.

To Paul Morand—a key to the city because he was the only foreigner who ever came to New York and wrote a book which did not depreciate it.

Backward Glances

By A. W. Neville

The order of court transferring the ground on which is the Paris High school to the Odd Fellows lodge, in trust, may be of interest both to members of the lodge and the citizens in general, especially those interested in educational matters.

The cause was heard in April, 1871, in the old court house in the center of the plaza, and was numbered on the docket of the Eighth district court No. 1793. Judge A. H. Latimer was on that bench but the record says: "Judge Latimer being in feeble health, it was agreed by the court and members of the bar that Judge Hardin Hart of the Fourteenth district preside during the remainder of the term."

The cause was styled "Wildey Lodge No. 21 vs Stockholders of Paris Female Seminary" and continues, "Plaintiff was represented by attorney, and executor of C. C. Alexander by attorney who says he has no defense to plaintiff's petition, and all defendants having been served, therefore a writ of inquiry is awarded: therefore let a jury come; and therefore came a jury of good and lawful men, to-wit, Thomas Johnson and eleven others, who being duly elected, impanelled and sworn, heard the evidence and arguments and charge of the court and found the facts in the petition to be true.

"The court adjudged that Wildey Lodge No. 21 be and the same is hereby continued in possession of the property and premises, and it further appearing to the court that said lodge is in a flourishing condition as a corporate institution, fully able to execute the trust as prayed for, it is therefore further decreed and adjudged that the legal title in and to lots 1 and 2 block 26, conveyed by William Richey to the president and board of trustees of Paris Female Seminary and also lots 3 and 4, block 26, conveyed to said president &c by Wesley Askins, Oct. 22, 1852, be and the same is divested out of the defendants and vested in the plaintiff for the uses and purposes hereinafter named; and it appearing fully to the satisfaction of the court from the verdict and facts in the case that the original trust had lapsed by non user and that plaintiffs had in the protection of her own rights taken charge of said premises then going to waste and expended a large sum, to-wit, $400, in its protection, and that the trustees under the original organization had ceased and determined by reason of abandonment and non user, it is ordered that plaintiffs be forever quieted in title and possession of said premises and that Waildey Lodge be and the same is hereby appointed trustee to execute the trust as near as may be, taking in view the changed conditions of things, and fully vested with the legal title as such trustee. And it further appearing to the court from the verdict of the jury and the facts that there are three large and flourishing female schools in the city and no male school and it seeming right to the court to vest the trustee with discretionary power in the premises, it is ordered that the trustee is hereby authorized to establish a male seminary or college or a female seminary or college, or a mixed seminary or college, as to the trustee may seem best; and whichever is established that they be and are vested with power to change the character of said school from time to time as the good of society may seem to require, and it appearing to the court that the plaintiff is the principal stockholder in said premises and defendants have committed no wrong, and that the benefits hereof accrue to said plaintiff, therefore it is ordered that the plaintiff pay all costs in this behalf, expended.

"Hardin Hart, Judge Fourteenth District."

And that was that.

Diet and Health

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M.D., Author of "THE HUMAN BODY"

Dr. Clendening

Complaints come to the effect that my articles do not furnish enough short cuts to dietary success. I do not say that a certain kind of diet is the right one and every other kind is the wrong one.

It is comforting therefore, to find some of my ideas confirmed by eminent dietitians.

Dr. Robert Hutchison of the London hospital, is recently reported to have said: "Vegetarianism is harmless enough, although it is apt to fill a man with wind and self-righteousness. But it is especially unsuitable for growing children and sedentary workers.' This is the doctrine I have preached for some time.

In one of the most authoritative medical journals in the world I find a recent article called "Dietary Facts, Fads and Fancies." It is by a physician in California, certainly the home of many such fads. This physician, however, is a real dietary authority.

"In general," he say, "the kind of advice most needed for adult patients refers more to the quantity constitutuents so often maligned. constituents so often maligned.

"Diet faddists among the laity are usually those who, having found certain varieties of food which they believe useful for themselves today, advocate such foods for everyone else regardless of conditions. Tomorrow they believe something else. Their own food fads explain everything to those who believe."

Speaking of newspaper information on diet, he says: "Reliable information has little selling appeal.' It is to be hoped he is wrong about that..

"The dangerous food combination" and "acid starch danger" theories are exploded. "There has never been the slightest proof that foods which are harmless when taken alone can become harmful when taken together in any combination."

"In recent years we have witnessed the propaganda for wholewheat bread. Its advocates attribute many of the ills of mankind to milling the grain which removes the bran. They assert that white bread is thus deprived of important vitamin constituents, ignoring the fact that these elements are supplied when white bread is made with milk, or eaten with butter, and in other constituents of the diet. The necessity for roughage in the form of bran has likewise been overstated. Bran is indigestible, irritating. As a conttimulent of the diet is not necessary for the well or ideal for the sick. The cellulose of cooked vegetables has much more to commend it."

Remember, these are not my words, but the somber opinion of a conservative physician writing in a paper not for popular reading, but to be read by doctors in a medical journal.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Dr. Clendening can not diagnose or give personal answers to letters from reader.. Where questions are of general interest, however, they will be taken up in order, in the daily column. Address your questions to Dr Logan Clendening, care of this paper. Write legibly and not over 200 words.)

Guiding Your Child

AFRAID TO GROW UP

By Mrs. Agnes Lyne

When the children have reached that stage of development in which their hands and feet seem to grow faster than the rest of their bodies when their bodies begin to assume the new curves and shapes which are signs of approaching maturity there often appears a curious fear—the fear of growing up.

The specific causes of this fear where it exists must vary with each child. In all likelihood there are a number of factors.

There is the unfamiliarity of the swiftly growing body, the humiliation of awkwardness due to the fact that motor co-ordination has not yet caught up with growth, and perhaps most potent of all, the fear of becoming an adult with all its attendant responsibilities.

The fear of growing up is not a wholesome thing although many parents unconsciously foster it because they enjoy keeping their children dependant upon them. It brings the child with a negative, fearful attitude towards numbers of experiences which he ought rightly to welcome.

How can we prevent the development of this wish to remain a child, this fear of maturity? We can minimize feelings of awkwardness and strangeness by dressing him as becomingly and comfortably as possible.

We can tactfully refrain from making fun of his clumsiness or in any way causing him to become more self-conscious that he already is. We can foster an attitude of pride instead of shame in his physical development. Throughout the years of later childhood we can try to cultivate an attitude of eager anticipation of reaching the adult state.

A WASHINGTON BYSTANDER

By Kirke Simpson.

WASHINGTON, (AP)—That precept of youthful sportsmanship, "turn about is fair play," might apply in the case of Simeon Fess, a senator from Ohio, and Calvin Coolidge, now a columnist.

Columnist Coolidge rushed to the defense of Fess when the latter's continuance as chairman of the republican national committee was assailed by republican stalwarts like Fred Britten and James Wadsworth, who don't see quite eye to eye with Mr. Fess on prohibition matters.

It will be recalled that Mr. Fess, in 1927-28, was the loudest and longest shouter of the "Draft Coolidge" battle cry. He was popularly supposed to have been verbally spanked by Mr. Coolidge for this too ardent championship.

Coolidge Gets Even.

Columnist Coolidge had a chance to even things up a bit when the "Oust Fess" cry was raised following the election. He deplored a tendency he saw toward adopting into politics from that other great American sport such outcries as "kill the umpire" and "take 'im out."

After all, Columnist Coolidge argued, if Fess didn't bring home the bacon in the bye-elections in the form of a substantial party majority in congress, neither did John J. Raskob for the democrats. And Raskob also was being assailed at that time.

So Columnist Coolidge advised both parties to make the most of chairmen of ability and character.

Quite possibly the inclusion of Raskob by name in this tribute from the republican president emeritus made it taste no sweeter to Fess. It is rather an oddity among political happenings.

If nothing else, it tends to disclose the former president in a most detached attitude toward partisan political hub-bubs.

Perhaps two years' isolation in Northampton from the warring factions in Washington has induced that mood of philosophic calm. Or again, maybe turning out a piece for the paper every day has tended to tone down his partisanship.

Maybe Dreaming.

Or yet again: maybe Mr. Coolidge is looking ahead, and dreaming dreams of his own. He's a young man yet, politically speaking. He has been meditating at Northampton since he left the White House, largely an onlooker at the game of politics he has played all his life.

The storms of business depression, drouth, the revolutionary upheavals to the south and near political revolution at home all are things of the time since he became against just Citizen Coolidge. Who could blame him if the saw visions now and then of a "Back to Coolidge" movement somewhere ahead?

Tyler Trounces Greenville to Win Bi-District Grid Title

TAKE 27-6 WIN WHEN OUTCLASS INVADING LIONS

Tyler Now Will Pair With Austin Maroons for Further Honors

By GAYLE TALBOT, Jr.
Associated Press Sports Writer

TYLER, Dec. 8, (AP)—Outclassing their opponents in every department of play, the Tyler high school Lions swept to a 27-6 victory over the Greenville Lions in their bi-district football tussle here Monday. The triumph established the Tyler eleven champion of district five and six and paired it against the Austin Maroons in a semi-final battle Saturday at Austin.

Harry Johnson, shifty quarterback, was the spearhead of a Tyler attack that scored two touchdowns on the heavier Greenville team in the first 10 minutes of play and then gathered itself to put across two more in the closing period. Greenville scored its lone touchdown late in the final quarter on a 60-yard pass to Byrd.

Tyler's margin of superiority was pronounced, the East Texans piling up 22 first downs to eight for the invaders. Their passing attack accounted for several sizable gains, but it was their running offense that did the principal damage. Johnson, Hill and Gregory alternated in tearing up the Greenville defenses with a fast charging line to clear the way.

Johnson romped ten yards across the Greenville line for the initial touchdown after a 40-yard march, the second followed almost immediately, with Gregory going over to climax a 50-yard drive. Late in the third the local eleven paraded 65 yards down the field and to the one-yard line before it was stopped. Greenville kicked out safely as the final session began, but Tyler came right back to push across a touchdown, Hill going over after a 25-yard drive. A 20-yard pass, Johnson to Morris, accounted for the victors' fourth score a few minutes later. Morris kicked three out of the four extra points.

Draft Problem Conference Will Be Held on Wednesday

By HERBERT W. BARKER
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Dec. 8, (AP)—The well-known draft controversy came to the rescue of harassed baseball reporters covering the mid-winter meetings of the National and American leagues Monday and gave them something to write about.

While major league club owners and managers indulged in spirited but fruitless conversations in the lobby of the Hotel Commodore, the committee of nine from the three class AA leagues, International, Pacific Coast and American Association, went into a huddle on the 26th floor and finally came forth with the announcement that a conference with the majors on the draft problem would be held in the Hotel Roosevelt at 10 o'clock Wednesday morning.

This announcement came after a series of incidents that sent the "war correspondents" scurrying up and down the elevators in a spectacular chase of the "low down" on the draft situation.

Just who was to represent the major leagues at the draft conference was problematical Monday night. It was said neither major league president, John Arnold Heydler or Ernest Barnard, would join the conferences, leaving the meeting in the hands of the club owners themselves. It was intimated, however, that John J. McGraw of the New York Giants, and William L. Veeck of the Chicago Cubs would form part of the National league delegation, for it was generally believed they were behind the movement to have the troublesome question thrashed out once and for all.

There was no indication that the disputants were any closer to a compromise than December 1, when the major league boycott on the non-draft leagues went into effect. Since that date th majors have had no business dealings with these circuits.

Granting that the draft is sound in principle, the minors want a draft price around $15,000 and privilege of owning a player at least two years before he is eligible for drafting purposes.

Managers of the American league club went into a conference with President Barnard to discuss possible improvement in inspiring conditions, but no definite policies were adopted.

Tuesday both the National and American leagues hold sessions and the national board of arbitration will hear evidence in the claim of Vic Aldridge, former major league pitcher, for back salary from the Newark Internationals.

National High Cage Tournament To Be Abandoned

CHICAGO, Dec. 8, (AP)—The University of Chicago's national interscholastic basketball tournament—the world series of the prep court game—is a thing of the past.

Amos Alonzo Stagg, Sr., who originated the tournament which annually drew entrants from almost every state, Monday night announced the event would not be renewed, "as it apparently has served its purpose in inspiring interest in high school basketball to the point where a national tournament no longer is necessary."

The tournament first was held in 1917. It was attacked by the National Federation of High School Athletic Association and the North Central Conference of Colleges and Secondary Schools, and a committee was appointed last spring by Vice President Frederic Woodward to decide whether it should be continued.

A questionnaire was sent to representative high school principals throughout the country and about 50 per cent replied. Eighty-nine favored abandoning the tournament on the ground that state tournaments supply all the competition necessary. Thirty voted for continuance and 16 men were undecided.

Love included numbers by Mary Dorothy Kuykendall, Helen and Bob Cooke, Ione Sharpe, Betty Jane Burge, Florine Garrett, Sarah Stevenson, Laura Lee Cooke, Miss Bland, the Builders class quartet, Mmes. Benton Fisher, J. W. Love and Bud Morgan, with Mrs. Troy C. Thompson as accompanist.

In the dining room, which was attractively decorated with flowers, as was the rest of the house, Mmes. Lawrence Teague and Chas. Delphenie poured tea during the afternoon, and Mmes. Herman Coker and Claude Ferguson in the evening, young women of the church assisting in serving refreshments.

MAN KILLED

his third shot was aimed point-blank at me."

Barnett explained that he was at the right front door of the bus, having circled the rear of the coach believing the man to be in the smoking compartment, and had approached the right door and was attempting to open it when the glass shattered in his face by a slug from McCarver's gun.

"Not until that third shot, which was aimed at me, did I open fire on the man," said Barnett. I think my first shot hit him, but I believe he must have been braced in the seat and could not fall. He had moved forward to the driver's seat.

Barnett said McCarver continued firing from his position in the front seat of the coach.

"My second shot must have dazed him and he slumped out the left front door to the ground. I then ran around the front of the seat and just as I appeared he raised his gun and fired at me again and I shot him through the body."

Barnett said that Hicks was firing also, but that Sheriff John Fry was unarmed and had no part in the affair.

Examination of McCarver's body show that one bullet entered his left shoulder, and ranged upward through his neck to the right. The other slugs entered the abdomen on the left side below the ribs, and one grazed the left shoulder. A cut or bruised place on the left cheek indicates one bullet grazed his face.

Pleads Not Guilty to Embezzlement Charges

SAN ANTONIO, Dec. 8, (AP)—Charged in federal district court with embezzlement and misapplication of $53,468.91 of National Bank of Commerce funds here prior to May 14, 1930, A. V. Campbell pleaded not guilty to each of 14 counts in the indictment after a jury was completed Monday.

A defense motion to quash the indictment Monday morning on the ground that it is insufficient in particulars was overruled by Judge West.

The defense then asked that government counsel be required to draw up a bill of particulars which in turn was denied by Judge West.

RECLUSE SLAYS

der charges were scheduled for filing Monday night.

Asked why he fired from his house, killing Floyd Bell, 18, and wounding Marion Kendall, 20, when they went to the barn to return a chain they had borrowed without permission, Powell said:

"They were bothering me."

He said he fired later from ambush, killing Deputy Hartwick, Sheriff Jones and Undersheriff Lancaster "were a mob."

"I wanted to fight it out," was te way Powell explained the wounding of Posseman Raba, who was preparing to take the farmer into custody from Ralston officers to whom he had surrendered after fleeing from his lonely home, six miles away.

Reba and young Kendall will recover, it was believed.

Self-Confessed Bank Bandit Is Arrested

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Dec. 8, (AP)—Birmingham police announced the arrest of a man giving the name of Dick Grinde, who confessed, they said, to being the lone bandit who held up and robbed the First National bank of Braman, Okla., last week.

CLASS B TEAMS OF COUNTY DRAW CAGE SCHEDULE

Tourney to Begin Dec. 11; County Championship Game Feb. 10

Meeting Monday night in the office of the county superintendent, representatives of 13 class B schools of the county drew up a schedule for the annual championship tournament held in this county. The schedule opens Thursday night, Dec. 11, with Paris high school meeting Roxton in the first game, to be followed by four other contests at 50 minute intervals. Brookston drew a bye in the first night's play.

As explained last year, Paris high school is not a class B school but is competing as such in basketball. At the conclusion of the class B tournament, the champions will clash with the winners in the rural division, play in which opens Thursday, December 18, for the county championship.

The class B schedule:

Thursday, Dec. 11.
6:00—Paris vs. Roxton.
6:50—Powderly vs. Cunningham.
7:40—Chicota vs. Howland.
8:30—Midway vs. Pattonville.
9:20—Deport vs. Petty.
Brookston bye.

Tuesday, Dec. 16.
6:00—Roxton vs. Powderly.
6:50—Cunningham vs. Chicota.
7:40—Howland vs. Midway.
8:30—Pattonville vs. Deport.
9:20—Petty vs. Brookston.
Paris bye.

Friday, Jan. 9.
6:00—Paris vs. Powderly.
6:50—Deport vs. Cunningham.
7:40—Chicota vs. Brookston.
8:30—Howland vs. Pattonville.
9:20—Roxton vs. Midway.
Petty bye.

Tuesday, Jan. 13.
6:00—Paris vs. Cunningham.
6:50—Powderly vs. Midway.
7:40—Roxton vs. Brookston.
8:30—Pattonville vs. Petty.
9:20—Howland vs. Deport.
Chicota bye.

Friday, Jan. 23.
6:00—Paris vs. Chicota.
6:50—Roxton vs. Petty.
7:40—Powderly vs. Pattonville.
8:30—Cunningham vs. Midway.
9:20—Howland vs. Brookston.
Deport bye.

Tuesday, Jan. 27.
6:00—Paris vs. Brookston.
6:50—Howland vs. Petty.
7:40—Powderly vs. Chicota.
8:30—Cunningham vs. Pattonville.
9:20—Roxton vs. Deport.
Midway bye.

These games must be played on or before January 20, in order that each team play the same number of games: Chicota vs. Midway; Deport vs. Brookston; Paris vs. Petty.

The four teams having the highest percentage will play by elimination for the class B championship February 3, the coaches decided. The championship in this division will be decided February 6, 1931, with the class B-Rural game for the county championship February 10.

Father J. Ricardo Dies Monday Night

SAN JOSE, Cal., Dec. 8, (AP)—Father Jerome Sixtus Ricardo, 80, known as het Padre of the Rains" died Monday night at the University of Santa Clara infirmary after a long illness. Death was caused by heart trouble.

The last absolution of the church was administered by Father Joseph M. Gorgen shortly before death.

Father Ricard was famous for his advocacy of weather forecasting by means of sunspots. He had been connected with the Santa Clara university nearly sixty years.

MIDDIES GET LIGHT DISH AS BATTLE NEARS

Coach Ingram Says His Regulars Have Reached Peak of Strength

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Dec. 8, (AP)—Coach Navy Bill Ingram, believing the three weeks' comparative rest his regulars had before the Penn game last Saturday did them more good than a rough and tumble preparation program, Tuesday gave a signal drill in preparation for the charity game with the Army in New York Saturday.

Ingram believes his regulars have reached the peak of their strength, having recovered from the battering received in five hard games in a row in mid-season with little replacement material to rest his varsity. Just enough work to keep the stars in shape was the program at the academy for the three weeks prior to the Penn game, which Navy won 28-0.

All regulars came out of that clash in good shape, and one of the most cheering results was the return of Johnny Gannon, halfback, to the form he displayed in the 1928 season. Gannon faded from the picture after the Dartmouth game at the close of last season, but Saturday gave a highly satisfactory demonstration of ball carrying.

Another spark of cheer was the development of Tom Hurley, another back who showed great driving power in the conquest of Pennsylvania. He has been a dependable ball carrier, but reached the height of his game Saturday.

MALARIA SURVEY

health department of Texas and the East Texas chamber of commerce.

Previous data compiled by the Texas state health department shows that 85 per cent all malaria cases reported in Texas has occurred in East Texas. Sixteen thousand cases have been reported, and health authorities estimate that this represents not more than 10 per cent of the total number of cases. They are of opinion that at least 160,000 cases have occurred in the state. It is further estimated that each case of malaria in the state costs in money, loss of time, and loss of productivity at least $100. This would be a total of $1,600,000 which is lost in Texas alone from malaria each year.

The survey which is now being made will give health authorities a scientific basis for future control and eradication work. The laboratory tests will determine how many of the school children are carriers of malaria germs. They will also show what types of malaria are most prevalent.

Four parties left the county superintendent's office Monday morning to visit the schools selected. Among those helping in the work were Mrs. Mary Jones Lindsay who accompanied H. A. Johnson, santiary engineer of the United States public health service. Miss Katie Horne accompanied Chester Cohen of the Texas state health department. Miss Mattie Epperson accompanied Dr. D. C. Peterson of the Texas state health department, and Joe R. Daniels helped E. G. Eggert of the state health department.

The survey was completed by 4 o'clock Monday afternoon, and the health authorities left Paris for Mount Picasant late Monday afternoon. They will be working in other parts of East Texas until December 19.

ministration to "the fiddling of Nero as Rome burned." He proposed that the government appropriate $100,000,000 to divide with states the cost of unemployment relief. He also asked a five-day week for government employes.

Senator Barkley, Democrat, of Kentucky, urged his bill to pay world war veterans cash for the face value of their bonus insurance certificates. Senators Caraway of Arkansas, Dill of Washington, and Copeland of New York, joined in the Democratic attack and in support of a party program beyond that recommended by the president.

Meanwhile, the house received the $30,000,000 drouth relief bill from its agriculture committee and prepared to meet the issue of $60,000,000 demanded for this work by Representative Aswell, Democrat, Louisiana.

The house appropriations committee will report Tuesday the $110,000,000 public works appropriations bills. Mr. Hoover asked $150,000,000 for this to press construction as a means of aiding employment.

The house probably will take up the public works measure Wednesday and follow that with the drouth relief bill. The end of the week should see both measures almost through congress.

For the speedy enactment of this legislation, the Republican-Democratic cooperation pledge is holding intact, but after that a dispute seems brewing on political lines over additional legislation.

Senator Vandenberg, Republican of Michigan, put into the senate record the correspondence between himself and Secretary Mellon regarding cash payments on bonus insurance certificates. The secretary flatly opposed such action and the Michigan senator asked reconsideration.

Walsh said if increased income taxes were necessary to meet the cost of the expanded program, they should be raised. He advocated that if income taxes were raised, the increase be confined to incomes of $20,000 and more.

Condemned Killer Takes Stand to Save His Mother

CHICAGO, Dec. 8, (AP)—A young condemned killer who is to die in the electric chair Friday took the witness stand Monday in an attempt to save his mother from conviction for her alleged part in attempting to help him escape.

William Lenhardt of Cleveland, sentenced to death for the slaying of a Chicago restaurant owner during a holdup, was the witness. He calmly told a detailed story of his attempt to escape, frequently perforating his remarks with profanity.

His mother, Julia Glovka, had no part in the attempt, Lenhardt said. A pistol she was alleged to have sent him by a jail guard, who is also on trial, came from a fellow prisoner, Lenhardt testified, and the package he received from his mother was a bottle of whisky.

ARMY MENTOR SAYS NAVY TEAM HAS HIT STRIDE

Middies 100 Per Cent Better Than During Season, Sasse Believes

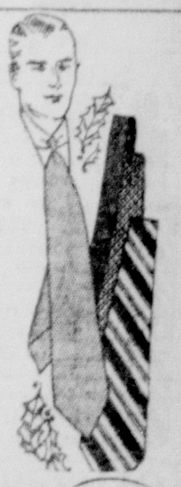

WEST POINT, N. Y., Dec. 8, (AP)—Launching practice Monday in preparation for the big charity game with the Navy in New York Saturday, Major Ralph I. Sasse, Army football coach, warned that "the Navy is 100 per cent better than at any previous time this season."

"Bill Ingram has developed a smooth-running attack which is perfectly coordinated," said Sasse, who saw the midshipmen in decisive victory over Penn. "It is obvious the team has found itself."

The Army Major Sasse said, "unconciously reached its peak for the Notre Dame game at Chicago. To keep the squad from going stale. We broke training after that game for three days. Now we are trying to build up."

During the practice session, Sasse, lined up his first team, with Messenger and King at ends, Carlson and Hummer, guards; Sauers and Price, tackles; Miller at center, Bowman at quarterback, Klattly and Fields, halfbacks, and Herb at fullback.

In full speed scrimmage, the Army plebes put on the Navy attack with considerable success.

CHAPTER 22

Lady Gwendolen was sitting on the long stool in front of the many mirrored dressing table in the exquisite rose-satin adorned room which Lady Dorothy had assigned to her on her arrival several months before. She had come to look upon that room as home, and to have a rather sentimental fondness for it. But during the days since Lord Winston's death it seemed to her as if the very gay rose of the hangings had turned a smoky grey, even as life itself had lost its bright hues.

It was the morning following the explorer's visit to the Home Office in London. He and the Police Inspector had gone up to London that very morning. Her maid had brought Lady Gwendolen that news with her early tea. She had further told her mistress of some great excitement going on, which so far stimulated Lady Gwendolen's curiosity that at this moment she was asking herself as to the wisdom of seeking out Lady Dorothy and getting details of the developments.

Lady Gwendolen was pale and sad, but otherwise the same girl that Robin Smith had come to worship. She still had the independence and courage which had instinctively attracted him. During the days since the inquest she had been busy thinking . . . thinking . . . It seemed the thoughts would forever go around in circles and lead nowhere. But on the previous night, when she had begged off from dinner, her mind had been clearer. She had of course, heard from Lady Dorothy about the discovery of initials on the fatal knife, and she had been sorely puzzled . . for the reason that she knew her brother's knife had formerly belonged to a man named Pierre . . . his other name she had never heard but certainly the initials "R. P." would not fit Pierre. Yet, if the knife was not Edward's she asked herself again and again, whose was it, and how had one so similar to his own come to be in this house? How? How?

It was later, after she was in bed, that a clear light seemed to shine through the phantasmagoria of her thoughts, a light that pointed to their native country. She felt that somewhere there in those snow-covered hills and deep-wooded lakes was the key.

And this morning, as she sat before the mirror, she had the same thought. And as she remembered the freedom and sweetness of her home, her heart cried out against the injustice which had locked up the poet. From the first she had thought him innocent, and repented her thoughtless teasing of him in the past. She admired the way in which he conducted himself during the trying ordeal of the inquest, and his defiant, yet sweet smile when the Inspector led him away. It had cast a romantic glamor about him which made him seem very different from the awkward ill-clothed poet whose fierce solemn reading of his own verse had sent her into peals of laughter.

She had thought more often of him than she would have liked to admit. She was again thinking of him. And as she looked at the reflection in the mirror, her black eyes for an instant had their old laughing gaiety. It was gone almost before it had come, but in that instant she had determined to visit the poet in his prison. She couldn't have told why herself, but she felt impelled to see him. Knew that she must go and see him.

A knock on her bedroom door disturbed her thought.

"It is only I, dear," came Lady Dorothy's voice. "May I come in?"

Lady Gwendolen jumped up to meet the older woman, who bent and kissed her affectionately.

"The two men are off to London," she said at once. "They have gone to see Prince Pezolevsky."

"Surely they don't believe he killed Edward?"

"I'm afraid it looks that way," said Lady Dorothy quietly. "But we mustn't allow ourselves to get excited. . . "

"But it's so stupid of them!" Lady Gwendolen frowned. "I'm positive it was a Canadian. I'm going to tell the Inspector as soon as he returns. It's certainly a Canadian knife, and I've been thinking over everything I know about Edward. . . you see, his being ten years older, and a man, and our being separated, means that it isn't much . . and trying to imagine what and why. . . "

"You have no idea of your own?"

"Nothing definite. . . but I'm almost sure the key to it all it to be found in Canada. . "

"You don't think Edward wronged anyone. . . ?"

"Oh, no!" was the indignant reply. "How dreadful to suggest such a thing! He was the best man who ever lived!" For some moments she couldn't control her voice.

"Forgive me dear, dear. I meant nothing. . . "

"Oh, I know," Lady Gwendolen replied huskily. "It's just that I can't get used to the idea that he's gone forever. . gone. But I don't intend to cry. He'd hate that!" she threw up her imperious little head bravely. "I mean to find the man that did it, and punish him."

"Dear little Gwen," Lady Dorothy murmured, as she smothered the slim white hand which was clenched in her lap.

"I meant about Edward that he was so just and honest that sometimes it seemed hardness to people that didn't know him as I did. He might have known something about someone, something wicked, and been going to tell . . for if he thought it was his duty he'd have been sure to tell. . "

"But what could he have known . . . and about whom?"

Lady Gwendolen shook her head doubtfully. "That's what I don't know. That queer fellow, Willie Hanson, perhaps . . . a Canadian or one who's lived in Canada almost surely. . "

"Why Canada, dearest?"

"That knife . . it's such a broad awkward knife . . . it would only be employed by someone used to Canada, and long accustomed to such weapons, or some primitive man . . I feel sure. It would be so much more natural to use a revolver or something. . . "

"But he might not have had a revolver, or might have been afraid of being heard," argued Lady Dorothy.

"But you must admit it is queer the man happened to have just the knife if he weren't Canadian."

"Don't worry your head about it dear," advised Lady Dorothy, who was disturbed at the strained look in the young woman's face. "I engaged Linscott to attend to everything, and he's a capable man I'm sure. And Mr. Armstrong has stayed on to help him . . . between them they're sure to find the guilty man and free my poor poet."

"Oh, yes," Lady Gwendolen began vaguely. "I was thinking about Mr. Smith." A sudden light broke over her face. "I know what it was. I'm going to visit him this morning!"

"Oh, Gwen, ought you? He's been found guilty of murdering your brother, you know. . . "

"But he didn't do it! You know that! I'm going to prove to him that I believe him. It's really your fault he's in all this trouble. "

"Oh, Gwen, I didn't think you'd throw that up to me!"

"Sorry, I didn't mean to hurt you, but you know you did give him an awful little room, and he's proud as Lucifer." There was a ring of pride in her voice which did not escape Lady Dorothy.

"I didn't know you were interested in him. . ." she said.

Lady Gwendolen reddened, but she answered defiantly: "Well, I am very much interested in him. He's brave, if he is silly and romantic. And I was brought up to respect bravery."

"Of course, child, so was I." Lady Dorothy smiled good-naturedly. She had suddenly realized that she was jealous of Gwen's liking Robin and as suddenly ashamed of the momentarily undignified feeling. Lady Dorothy enjoyed championing the poet and being the sole champion—at least, being the sole woman champion—gave it an added piquancy.

"Will you come with me?" asked Lady Gwendolen. "You go down every morning and afternoon, don't you?"

"There've hardly been enough yet to say 'every.' I did go the afternoon of the inquest and twice yesterday, but if you go this morning I can send the books and flowers and things with you, and you can tell Mr. Smith I'll be along after lunch."

"I didn't suppose they allowed prisoners such comforts. . . "

"I don't know much about it," replied Lady Dorothy. "Mr. Smith is the first prisoner I ever knew," she smiled.

"It's because everyone likes you," said Lady Gwendolen. "You know everyone old and young falls sooner or later!"

"You funny child! Run along now and see Robin. It's early for us, but I'll wager he hasn't slept all night!"

Lady Dorothy's guess was more correct than she would have liked to think. Not only hadn't Robin slept the previous night, but since he had been confined he had managed only snatches full of troubled nightmares, and these generally in the daytime and from sheer exhaustion. All night, in the intense quiet, by candle-light he would work. He had done a hundred lines or more of a new poem which he knew was a big stride ahead. He didn't dare think of its future or whether it would ever see the light of day. . . he didn't dare look ahead at all for fear he would go mad. He lived from hour to hour, from minute to minute sternly repressing any frightful fancies which clamored for entrance to his tired and excited brain. It was when he dozed that it was the worst. He would dream of being lost in crowds of men all with faces like the twelve good men and true who had sat to decide his fate two days before and these crowds would grow denser and denser and he would be crushed and not able to breathe, and beat against the pressing human beings for air, but they would just look at him and press closer until he would wake holding on to his throat and gasping. It was horrible!

LEVINE, FREED OF SUSPICION, TO ATTEMPT FLIGHT

French Flier Under Surveillance for Counterfeiting Small Coins

VIENNA, Dec. 8, (AP)—Charles A. Levine, freed of a suspicion of attempting to counterfeit small French coins, will return to the United States shortly to perfect plans for a solo round the world air flight to be accomplished in 15 days, he said Saturday.

Charges preferred against him November 11, when he was arrested near Vienna were quashed Saturday. The public prosecutor held there was "absence of proof" Levine had planned to engage in the falsification of money.

The man who achieved note as the first transatlantic airplane passenger breathed a sigh of relief and prepared to get out of Vienna as quickly as possible. First he tried for an airplane, his usual means of travel, but was unsuccessful. Then he bought a second class railroad ticket to Paris.

Levine attributed his misfortune to an idea he had conceived in connection with plans for his round the world flight. The idea was to have small medals made bearing his likeness and a map of the globe to distribute at the various places at which he would stop. Unfortunately he decided to have them made similar to French two franc pieces and approached a Viennese engraver for the matrices.

The engraver informed police.

Levine subsequently spent some days in jail until his wife and his lawyers convinced Austrian authorities he was innocent of any criminal intent.

New Orleans Cotton.

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 8, (AP)—Cotton Monday was dominated by the government's final estimate of the crop which was placed at 14,243,000 bales. Despite the fact the figure was about two hundred thousand bales below expectations, prices which had advanced 2 to 6 points before the report was issued declined 1 to 4 points after the estimate was known but soon rallied 9 to 15 points on trade buying only to slump sharply 28 to 29 points near noon on heavy hedge and Wall street selling.

Trading was quieter in the afternoon and prices rallied a few points but the improvement did not hold. The close was steady and at or near the lows showing net declines of 13 to 17 points.

Liverpool was 2 to 3 penny points lower than due and first trades here showed losses of 4 to 7 points with January at 10.38. Prices soon rallied however on shorts covering and before the market recessed to receive the government report January traded at 10.50 and March to 10.72 or 2 to 6 points above Saturday's close.

New York Cotton.

NEW YORK, Dec. 8, (AP)—Cotton was lower Monday under liquidation or reselling by recent buyers which appeared to be promoted in the first instance by relatively easy Liverpool cables and later by the failure of a slight reduction in the official crop estimate to bring in general or aggressive buying.

Some rather quick and irregular fluctuations were noted immediately after the publication of the crop report, but the market soon weakened under renewed liquidation combined with some southern selling. March, after selling off to 10.51 immediately after publication of the report, rallied to 10.82 but later broke to 10.55 and closed at 10.57. The general market closed barely steady at net declines of 14 to 18 points.

The government crop report placing the estimated crop at 14,243,000 bales, was only slightly under the average of recent private reports, but its publication removed an uncertainty which had exercised a restricting effect on business and led to considerable evening up last week. The ginnings of 12,834,970 bales were about in line with expectations.

Chicago Grain.

CHICAGO, Dec. 8, (AP)—Surprise that the corn visible supply should exhibit but 11,000 bushels for the week led to a brisk late upturn Monday. The smallness of increase was in a sharp contrast with the fact recent receipts here and at other primary markets had been enlarged. Aggressive buying also was promoted by knowledge that the Farmers' National Grain corporation, a government sponsored agency, had purchased corn future deliveries.

Corn closed firm at nearly the day's top level, 1-4 to 1c a bushel higher than Saturday. Wheat closed irregular, 1-8 off to 3-8c up, oats at 1-4 decline to 1-2c advance, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 12.

Closing indemnities, wheat, Mar. (offers) 79 1-8; May 80 7-8, 81 1-4; July 77 5-8 to 3-4, 74 3-8. Corn, Dec. 72 1-4, 74 3-4; Mar. 75 3-4, 78; May 77 5-8, 79 7-8 to 80; July 79 3-8, 81 5-8.

Fort Worth Livestock.

FORT WORTH, Dec. 8, (AP)—Hogs, 800; truck hogs mostly 5 lower, no rail hogs offered; truck top 8.35; better grades 170-230 lb. truck hogs 8.20 to 8.35; packing sows 6.75 to 7.25, or steady.

Cattle, 7,200; low cutter cows around 10-15 higher; other grades slaughter cattle mostly steady; grass and short fed steers 5.50 to 6.50; good fed grades lacking; good fat cows up to 5.00 and 5.10; butcher cows around 3.25 to 3.75; well bred steer yearlings 8.40, fully steady; better grades steer calves 8.00 to 8.50; and heifer calves up to 7.25; or steady; good young stock cows 4.75. Slaughter calves rather slow, around 25 lower, heavies 6.40 down.

Sheep 2,000; lambs strong to a quarter higher; other classes steady; wooled lambs 7.00 to 7.25; mixed feeder lambs 6.25; few yearlings 5.50; aged wethers 4.00; goats 2.00; feeder lambs mostly 5.50.

New York Stock Market.

NEW YORK, Dec. 8, (AP)—Liquidation of the friendless railroad shares, many of which went to new lows for this year or considerably lower, carried the entire stock market lower Monday.

The average of 90 leading issues dropped just 2 points and at the close stood only 3.4 points above the November 19 minimum. Activity again increased, bringing sales to 1,983,840 shares, the largest volume since November 25.

Although there was nothing in the news to cause special pressure against the carrier equities, this group was battered persistently. Atchison, Baltimore & Ohio, New York Central and Union Pacific skidded 5 points, making small recoveries, if any.

Firmness in wheat was attributed in part to government estimates on the large amount being fed to stock, thereby reducing surplus. Final quotations were about a quarter cent higher. Corn rallied 3-8 to a cent in response to rumors of farm board buying. Cotton's losses were 60 to 90 cents a bale.

Foreign exchanges, mostly quiet and steady, were featured by the Canadian dollar's dip below par, thus reversing its recent trend. Sterling cables were firm.

Took It At Middle Age

"I began to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at Change of Life. Now I still take it every spring and fall and it keeps me in good health. I am able to take care of an eight-room house and garden, at the age of 71 years. I will praise the Vegetable Compound wherever I go for it is a wonderful medicine for women. They should give it a good trial by taking about five bottles."—Mrs. Clara Riley, 2100 Paxton and 4th Avenue, Sioux City, Iowa.

COLDS MAY DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)
